Thread: The Best Speech You'll Ever Hear

ArtMachine - November 18, 2017, 2:02 am

Greetings everyone,

Today, I am going to share the best speech you will ever hear in your life. A speech which will open your eyes.

Feel free to ask any questions or share your opinions about this.

I am not sure what is here to make fun. Is the way animals are suffering being made fun of?

You can watch this video and open your eyes if you want. Else no need to make fun.

Thank you.

M8 I have a doggo, he's my best friend and only friend. So dog abuse is one way to get me to stab you on the neck and club you to death. Although that doesn't stop me from eating pork, chicken and beef. As long as the animal dies quickly I have no problem eating meat. It's another thing if you torture the animal for "taste".

This is the ugly reality people choose to ignore

It's fascinating to me how propagandized and desensitized our population has become. OPs video has some good points, though a lot is right, it is very unrealistic at this juncture to expect any society to boycott goods from the large corporations given that 2.1 Billion or 30% of our WORLD population struggles with obesity. The video was insightful, and I agree with many points. Unfortunately, veganism is an impractical thing even to attempt to impose upon people today. However educating people about Veganism, I have no problem with I think it's phenomenal that people like this exist to educate. Hopefully, people would begin to adopt such practices. Interesting video OP.

That's really a good thing that you care for your dog dude. But what happens to the animals you mentioned as "Chicken, pork and beef"

They also have lives right? They would suffer the same pain just like us.

I care for all lives, whether it is a dog or cat or chicken or cow or fish or anything.

spe·cies·ism

n.

Intolerance or discrimination on the basis of species, especially as manifested by cruelty to or exploitation of animals by humans.

(Environmental Science) a belief of humans that all other species of animals are inferior and may therefore be used for human benefit without regard to the suffering inflicted.

Please answer the following ethical question.

Name a trait present in animals, which if present in humans, would justify the treatment proposed by omnivores if applied to a human.

He had everything to control a country. Strong will. Very powerful aura and a sense of right.

A lot of that stuff cant be found in todays leaders.
