Thread: I was raised by a huge feminist

I think i was raised by a huge feminist...

Let me give you some examples. This is part of the problems i have with feminist

When i was growing up about 10-13 some of my friends started going to hooters. And my mom was like "omg no way you are not going there its not okay"

And when Abercrombie and Hollister was big clothing at same age. My mom was like they have soft-core porn in there magazines you cant shop there. (it also showed sideboob in the clothing store lol)

Meanwhile years down the road my little sister is that same age now about 12-14 and my mom lets her shop at Victoria secret? Wtf? She has problem with me going shopping or eating at small sexually suggestive places yet lets her daughter shop at a actually sexual place?

Do you have any other reason other than what you posted that she is a feminist?

Maybe your mom just tried to raise you to not become a manpig ?

Haha, then tell her this OP. Don't whine about it on a forum.

Must have never talked to a feminist before then.

Yea it was only one example and probalby doesnt... lIts an example to show there believe system

They will raise boys or raise there daughters in life to think everything is a mans fault.. They will create issues and cause confliction between men...

They use there daughters as weapons against men in there lives. it will be hard ot understand

unless you have a younger sister or a daughter

Let me give you example. Growing up you proabably taught by a woman that reason a woman is a hoe or doesnt doesnt turn out in life is because of absent father or something the father does in life?

But if you watch closely a feminist mother will promote being a hoe in a her daughters life. (example again dressing sexually and just saying a guys fault if somethings wrong with it they are perverted etc).

It's not an "actual sexual place" it's a lingerie shop just cause it turns you on doesn't mean it's a sexual place when women are just buying lingerie there.

Not all feminists are the same by a long stretch and some might think that it fine for women to make money any way they want.

Different feminists have different views.

Not trying to be a douche OP but when you are saying that something belongs to someone you need to spell it as THEIR daughters, not THERE which is like "over there." You've just posted it too often for it to be a typo, and you'll do better on any English exams if you learn the difference.

Different men will consider different clothes "dressing sexy" women don't and shouldn't have to dress worrying about that, or do you want them all to dress like strict Muslims in a burka? It IS a boy/man's fault if they rape someone. That's not being a feminist just not a rapist/molester to realise that.

Like yeah there are some feminists who are just nutty about blaming everything on men, but other feminists are just about promoting female positivity and women's issues.

Fair enough but i just think that a teen much less a young teen shouldnt be shopping in a lingerie store. Minor sex is illegal and immoral in most culture's so why shop in a damn lingerie store.. If young teen girls can do that shopping in a place that is made for women to look "sexy" before or during sex. Then i guess we should allow young teen boys to go to strip clubs.

But like she NEEDS underwear? lol

It's YOUR perspective that it's about looking sexy, and her perspective and your mother's that she's just buying underwear. She has to have a bra. She wants it to be pretty for herself. It really has nothing to do with sex just because you find their ads sexy. lol
