Thread: Custom coded wordpress template

Hostamia Inc. - November 25, 2017, 2:28 pm

Hello,

Simply sharing the following website on behalf of my friend in order to receive some feedback

He coded the wordpress template himself.

Thanks,

<https://iraqi-dev.com>

What do you think?

It's a bit basic but not bad. Based on 'twentyseventeen' I see - your frontend guy should really use less !important tags lol.

The website looks graphically nice BUT you might wanna add some security and change some sentences like for example when I tried to login to the website and I used admin as username I got the message: "wrong username" telling me that I just needed to look for the correct username and when I found the correct username I just had to guess a password for example 0000 then it told me "Wrong password" which told me that only the password was wrong and not the username anymore so in other words you might wanna change your passwords etc and increase the security.

change the message to something that is clear for you and is not giving away any information like "Wrong". or don't show a message at all.

you can find a lot of help on this forum and on the rest of the internet.

NOTE: I just like to check certain things and I'm informing you to take measures. I'm not using this in anyway possible but keep in mind someone else might.
