

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Firefox update 57, quantum youtube homepage bug.

EthanX - November 27, 2017, 3:52 am

My issue is the same exact issue on this subreddit post, \(reddit post\)

When i am signed into my youtube account, it takes anywhere from 10-25 seconds to load everything. While it is loading, I cannot even close the browser, it is completely unresponsive. I get a pop up saying this webpage is slowing down your browser.

Does anyone else have this issue or know how to fix it? Firefox is fast and looks beautiful but I cannot use it until this is fixed. I have tried every single recommendation I could find, including going into firefox registry and changing something to false.

I have no extensions or adblock, my copy of firefox is new and fresh.

Plz help.. this only happens when i am signed into youtube

Youtube works on chrome fine. It is not my internet speeds :

[img]<http://beta.speedtest.net/result/6828796534.png>[/img]

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Nibblerino - November 28, 2017, 3:39 am

I don't get the same issue, but using Quantum for this past week I've noticed a handful of bugs. I'd suggest reporting this on Mozilla's support forums to see about getting this fixed.

DarkQuasar - December 2, 2017, 2:01 am

I cannot even use Youtube, as when I go onto the site it is just a white screen other then the logo on the top left.

SIM-1589588 - December 2, 2017, 2:31 am

I had same sort of issue and I did a clean install.