User in question:

<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=883840>

Issue:

User has charged back on $250 PayPal funds. I cleared my PM's earlier due to bring full but I distinctly remember this guy sending three separate payments from a new PayPal, I questioned it but with previous successful exchanges with him I didn't think to far into it... Kicking my self in the ass now. Like legit only member to ever send me a split payment and for evidence this is his PayPal please see how other recent disputes on site here...

That sucks, was the chargeback categorized as unauthorized...?

If so, good luck getting your money back, those are not easy to win.

Yes it was. He actually cost me alot more then the $250... They limited my business account that had 5 digits in it... I'm not real pleased.

@OP Sorry for your loss man.

I recommend you white out your real name in your photos... This is still a 'hacking' forum...

Out of all possible users you decided to deal with that one and with $250..

sLACKER - November 29, 2017, 4:15 pm

He had done a few exchanges with me in the similar range previously with no issues that is why I didn't hesitate.

I should have caught on when his PayPal changed and our deal was prior to his existing disputes etc.

I have had many threaten to "dox" & "swat" me etc...

If they wish to they can and I'll laugh about it. My information was posted publically back in 2012 (by my self) and I could care less as I've been "swatted" for shit I've done to get warrants any way lol

If some one wishes to steal my identity, jokes on them cause I can't get shit in my name any more any way lol
