Thread: What are your classes next semester?

Gliese - November 29, 2017, 7:59 pm

I'm taking Calculus II (Integral Calculus), English II, Physics I, and Discrete Mathematics.

thc gummy - November 30, 2017, 3:42 pm

Was scheduled to take upper division Philosophy of Science, but due to low enrollment, the class was unfortunately dropped :(

So I'm currently set up with:

Psychology Research Methods
Developmental Psychology
Psychopathology

SIM-1179501 - November 30, 2017, 7:57 pm

Diff Eq, Coding Class, Thermal Physics (intro), Quantum Physics (intro), Relativity (w/ calc3 stuff), Gen Ed. 16 hours in total, freshman physics major.

Sounds like a fun lineup, Business Calc 2 will be fun, and intermediate macro should be a good course as well. I can't speak on Chinese or Computer Architecture, unfortunately :p

Third time taking calc. I guess im not so good in math, but oh well. Chem and Digital logic are my other classes and they are starting to get tough. What can you do though...

I plan on taking biology. I did not do so good last semester in that class so I have to retake it.

arkoydas - December 4, 2017, 3:39 pm

We do not need any classes to attend. Just read whatever you want in the internet.

Ni??c??k - December 4, 2017, 3:41 pm

Taking gen-ed courses right now.

Kinda wish I took most of my AP exams as I'm almost certain I would've passed most of them

KappaPride - December 4, 2017, 3:45 pm

Microeconomics, Composition II - Rhetoric, Federal Government, United States History I, United States History II, Precal & Cal 1
23 credits BABBBYYY

holy shit 7 classes what have I done

Rolex Gold - December 4, 2017, 11:17 pm

Taking all upper level science classes like Organic chem and biochem. Gonna be a tough semester.

Tyrannus - December 4, 2017, 11:19 pm

Next quarter i'll be taking Informatics 201, Psychology, and Biology. I might need to retake multivariable calculus if this final fucks me in the ass.

Baws. - December 5, 2017, 1:11 am

Im going light next semester with only 4 courses; discrete math, c++ course, web application, and statistics

Crake - December 5, 2017, 1:47 pm

Next term I have Computer Security, Computer Operating Systems, Mathematics Research Principles, and Invention for Community Engagement.

I signed up for OS and dropped that shit. I'm done with low-level C programming. Had enough of that in Machine Organization.

ACP - December 12, 2017, 9:04 pm

Physics, engg mathematics, organic chem, mechanics, 2more core subjects of mech, programming, and 3 labs
