Thread: Donated blood plasma for \$540 :\)

Hubert - December 6, 2017, 10:57 am

I recently got diagnosed with Mono and I found a company that will take the plasma from my blood and pay me. They use the blood plasma for research and to help other people with mano. They pay me $200 per donation and $70 to cover the trip and convenience. So far I have done it twice and I've made $540 for about 30 minutes of just sitting there. I am doing 2 more donations this week :) Easy money i want to do this too, im ready to sell everything's in me just for money lol.

but we don't have this blood-donation services in my country :(

You aren't donating blood if you are getting paid for it. You are selling it. Anyway nice job OP.

Hope you know you could possibly end up with your veins popping in your arm from doing it too much. Be safe.

Hell of a niche. Mind sending me a box of mano? All jokes aside, hope you get better and great job on earnings.
Cheers, ?

Going to make this an ebook, and sell it.

All jokes aside, I never knew companies would pay that much.

Spencer4888 - December 26, 2017, 9:22 pm

I wonder how much that Company makes...

I have no idea honestly. They have different sections for research xynt - December 27, 2017, 1:48 pm

If I wasnt scared of this type of shit I would do it lol.

Mononucleosis is curable, isn't it? If so you won't be able to do this for long.

Also is there a limit on how much blood you can donate/sell?
