How I found HF. In the year 2014 I use to hang around a lot on IRCd servers, just chilling, joking but making loads of new friends and I loved the way that Online Social life was. So I decided to create my own IRCd server, and as my server was growing bigger and bigger with more members joining each week i started to get a lot of problems, like people ddosing me off-line then coming back bragging I had been owned and all the other rubbish, so to look in to this more on how to stop the situation I googled ddos protection and came across HF. The place looked massive full of different options on what to look through and learn. There and then I had to register and join up, within the first year of just browsing here and making posting comments I loved the place that much I tried creating my own forum just the same, which was a huge failure lol.

How I am why I am I mostly post in the Lounge area because I see some weird and twisted stories in there, and they sometimes seem fun enough to take your time and read them. I always like to leave a post, never too serious but always with a little bit of sense of humor. The one thing I dislike on here though is the silly trolls that love and like to belittle people on here to make themselves feel superior. When I was younger at school I use to get bullied a lot and I know exactly how bad inside it feels so whenever I clock someone bullying someone or belittling someone I have always got to chirp up and put the person in there place.

How HF has changed me Well as time has gone on with me being here, its made me more confident, by being so confident I have made loads of new friends online having jokes like I would with the friends I have offline and at work. Now I've just become a daddy I never really go out anymore, so I'm either sorting my little boy out or browsing/posting on here. This forum has changed and helped me in better ways to help being a father as well with some threads I've read. So once again that's where HF has helped.

Summary So I'd just like to say this is how I found out the place, how it has helped me and why I am the person I am on here. And I enjoy every minute on here. I'd like to say thank you to the HF staff team to make it how it is.
