Thread: Inspect Element

What would happen if a job asked for your unofficial academic transcript and you used inspect element to re-arrange your GPA. Would or could they ever know?

I gave fake results in one of my colleges (UK) to get into a higher course. They didn't verify the information. They could contact your highschool, it depends on whether it's procedure or not. Should be worth the risk if GPA is a requirement/you're GPA really sucks.

I pnce finessed the tax office by inspect elementing some bills lmaooo

I would say just do it but dont make it obvious

If they were a smart company, they would request it from the school directly.

it depends in which country you live in

If you live in the US they will probably verify the info and then u donzo
