Thread: Contact feature of HackForums

Lucky Jimmy95 - December 11, 2017, 6:58 pm

Hello all, long time former member here... My Ub3r account, Lucky Jimmy was banned. I logged in on it and it said it was deactivated for inactivity. Unfortunately, Ub3r members are not supposed to be deactivated. I then proceeded to use the contact feature on the top menu bar to request my account be reactivated. I was curious if the contact feature is currently active? Also are there any mods active that could please help with my issue? If anyone knows of the efficacy of the contact feature please comment below!

To my belief, inactive accounts are not to be reopened after they are closed for the 1 year activity mark. I'm not entirely sure, though.

Not Ub3R, though.

Consider yourself lucky.

I registered in 2008 and had like 8k posts and ub3r, and I forgot my password.

I contacted Omni through contact form and he banned me and rep fucked my account permanently with reason "too many people do this" lol..

If your account was closed due to inactivity then it is gone for good. Yes, this even includes ub3r accounts.

Luckily for you, closures for inactivity are gone now. You will most likely be allowed to continue on this account and start over new if your previous account was truly closed for inactivity and not anything more sinister.

Can my account be reinstated with my sick programming skills? Or is there anyway I can request to have it reactivated? Hf needs us old guys on it...
