Thread: What happened to the time where you could insult someone and they wouldn't get mad

Captain P. - December 13, 2017, 7:03 am

I remember this time that you always could insult someone and they wouldn't be offended and actually offend you back. Those were the fun times. Now everyone seems like a whiny bitch that cries about all the little offending stuff that happens around them.

For example:

I wouldn't fuck a fat bitch (OMG BODYSHAMING AND MISOGYNY CUZ U CALLED HER A BITCH)

what the fuck is wrong with our society

Everyone is so sensitive now a days. You can't make a joke about anything without people getting upset. Even calling someone gay - which use to be like "Haha you're gay" - people are now like "Omg I'm gay that's so rude I'm a guy I'm going to go cry in the woman's bathroom at Target and you can't stop me wahwahwah".

This generation is really raising to be a bunch of puss puss's.

I rather kill myself than raise my kids to be such fucking pussies and wankers.

I wouldn't go as far as killing my self haha - but yes I agree with you - the world is brutal - it's full of thieves, ass holes, and ignorant people. You need to have tough skin - I don't know why these parents raise these children to be sheltered and afraid of everything. Go out, play football, do drugs, have fun. You don't need to live life the same way they did - it's a different world.

Well I wouldn't recommend my kids to do drugs, but what you say is true. The world is a harsh place and not everyone will give a shit about your feelings. The thing I hate the most is these feminists who try to make fat shaming illegal whilst they're making fun of men for having a small dick or a small brain. Like being fat you can change, but having a small dick/brain you can't do shit about.

This one feminist tried to drop this insult on me, asking in front of a group if I wax my face, due to limited beard grow. I told her "I don't, but maybe you should". She went insane, calling me a women hater, sexist and whatever bullshit she could come up with. I mean like if I were to insult a woman for having small breasts, what the fuck would I expect? Her to reply kindly? Nah.

This generation are such pussies that if they do offend someone and they get offended back they'll cry as loud as they can.

The whole feminist thing - don't even get me started. We can tell someone they're skinny - it's ok - you tell someone they're fat , they blow a gasket. Like look in a mirror ,you know you're a hefty person - Why get so offended. If you're so upset by it - pick up a carrot and a weight bar - It's changeable - look I'm a big guy - I'm 6'4 275 LBS , but I don't care LOL. I'm happy with how I am - but people just get so bitchish over things - it's sickening.

There never has been a time, it just depends who you say stuff to.

There hasn't, yes I agree women feel more empowered now but that's not a bad thing. Unless you're a sexist.

r0flez - December 13, 2017, 10:09 am

You can basically be insulting someone by staring at them the wrong way, you would get an aggressive "WOT" reply 90% the time
