

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: SAT Practice

Immortal Modz - December 13, 2017, 4:14 pm

So I got SAT coming up soon. What subjects will be on the SATs? Where is a good place to study for the SAT and get info on practice problems? And overall how do I improve to be better at solving the problems?

Lastly, What's a good SAT score range?

SIM-1179501 - December 13, 2017, 10:02 pm

cracksat.net and /r/sat (<https://www.reddit.com/r/Sat/wiki/index>), please don't waste your money and time with SAT tutors unless you're rich AND unmotivated.

Good SAT Score range depends on what colleges you're looking at. 1400+ should make you a decently competitive.

Ben Shapiro - December 13, 2017, 10:05 pm

Jesus dude, when is your SAT. Hopefully it's not soon if you don't know the subjects O_o

You can go to the official collegeboard site for stuff like that. Although the user above is right in most cases, I spent $500 on a tutor (2 students 1 teacher) and got a 1510 on the 'new' version of the test. However I never took it without studying so I'm not sure if that's what I would have got without the tutor but in my mind it really helped me.

ACP - December 14, 2017, 6:53 am google it. you'll find some tutorials on the youtube.