Thread: RESOLVED Report. please close.

M4TB - December 14, 2017, 8:48 am

USER HAS FULLY PAID ME ALL. RESOLVED. I am glad we came to conclusion. legit deal please close thread

Honey Singh - December 14, 2017, 8:51 am

This user is kid and no idea what he is talking about.
Asking for $106.44

Transaction link =

Which show correct amount :- $98.78
(This is the amount he sent to me)

Someone please give him lesson, Poor kid.

(Dec 14, 2017 09:50 AM)J.P Morgan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You know, he might have paid rest money as transaction fees. Did you talked about it before doing exchange? Can you post tx id here?
Check my post bro,
Anyways, guys this will be my last post to this thread.

Don't have even single second to waste, OP message me once you'll collect some information how bitcoins works.

Jimmie - December 14, 2017, 8:59 am

After looking at the proof M4TB uploaded he is right I'm not sure why everyone is negging him the bitcoin could have been $106 when he sent it most exchangers are slow when paying.

(Dec 14, 2017 09:54 AM)jimmie Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Did he agree to pay the PayPal fee or whatever you used?

Deal was 1:1, He has no clue that how bitcoin works = Transaction fee and all.
He said, I have received $106.044 USD after transaction fee and I own his "$106.44" amount.

Transaction link says everything clear =

That's true.. HoneySingh payed at market rate when transaction got confirmed.. which is less that agreed upon rate.

I get it now, OP wanted to sell bitcoins to honey singh and agreed on a price of 121 usd (17600 USD per btc) but when op sent those coins, price was changed and it was 98$ something at the time of transaction after deducting fees. So OP is asking for honey singh to complete the exchange at the rates they agreed on.

0x45 - December 14, 2017, 9:04 am

OP already paid 14, so $121 got to $106. Honeysingh paid him 98.xx, which is lesser

I think $106 is fair honestly he did pay a $14 fee so he would get it instantly which is ridiculous.

OP also sent me this as he couldn't post it and Honey Singh said the the deal was still on and he was fine with the coinbase security check time.

first of all that image was sent before i even sent it. Secondly as you can see in the OP YOU AGREED UPON THE RATE.

are you telling me if bitcoin doubled over night u would have sent me 212.08$? or wud u have said that no the rate we agreed upon means 106.04$? Funny how you change ur mind based on what gives u more money.

WE AGREED ON A RATE BEFORE I SENT TO STOP THIS CONFUSION. yet you make it confusing. I dont want a refund in BTC after ive already lost 14$ in transaction fees.

Either send me a full 0.00687904 BTC back. or pay me the 106.04$ USD PP that you owe me.

you claim to not care about 8-9$ yet this dispute is still up im still not paid. and youre still arguing over it.

You don't know how HF marketplace works.

ELI5 incoming!

HoneySingh has a thread.

In his exchange thread he can write whatever rules he wants for his currency exchanges and by accepting the deal with him you're automatically obliged to listen to his rules since he's reputable and you are not.

Since you sent him the BTC within minutes and it was an delay on Coinbase's part, you'd expect the seller to do the right thing and give you your money on the agreed upon rate.

I mean, it's not like you could predict what would happen.

Any person that values their moral quality would do the right thing and give you your money. I mean, business can take a loss sometimes due to unforeseen circumstances. It's kinda the responsibility of the businessman to deal in good faith.

However on HF, you have these experienced marketers that write their ToS to just basically justify themselves IN ANY SCENARIO, no matter whether it's your fault or not, voila, they don't have to give you anything since their ToS state that they don't have to!

Then, they are ready to argue to the moon and back about how their ToS say this, basically a person that chose money over moral qualities. Kinda similar to a hooker.

No offence intended, just a honest outlook on the marketplace.

I know it is quite unfortunate.

It's just how business works on here, and sadly you can do nothing about it other than be wiser next time.

Sorry for your loss, however it's a $8 lesson. You can live without $8, consider it a $8 bargain, valuable experience about people nonetheless.

I'll stick to my point,

User sent money after 3-5 hours. User never sent me money instantly.

User have 2 options.

I'll pay $98.78 according to the transaction link =

<https://blockchain.info/tx/3f8bf5e7a7e8a...c934ac8b77>

or the amount I've got in bitcoin + i will cover bitcoin fee from my end.

I don't care about the money but sorry rules are rules.

Check time !

When we agreed on rates = <https://gyazo.com/dde828928d38147bc51cab49b3116d0>

When i got the bitcoin = <https://gyazo.com/06a131c21c497e51f6521eef3eea4845>

Some people with awards/badges think they can do anything they want. This is straight up blackmailing towards the OP from the buyer.

Exactly Honey Singh is just being greedy.

M4TB - December 14, 2017, 10:22 am

I have received 98.78 from honey he now only owes me 8.26$

He will owe you $8.26 until the end of time simply because of his ToS that he wrote to justify his current actions.

Keep this thread open for life, I don't give a shit.

If you want refund, i can pay you the same amount i've got in bitcoin + will pay bitcoin fee of $10-15 from my pocket.

But i will not give $8.26 (Which is not correct, Rules are for everyone)

I'll stick to my point. I know what i am doing.

Been trading here for ages.

Note to myself: never deal with Honey.

All this drama for $8. Don't even want to think about $1k + transactions.

I know right lol

Lukas - December 14, 2017, 10:32 am

Keep this scam report open. Even though it's $8, people will still see how big of a struggle it is to deal with him.

Woods - December 14, 2017, 10:49 am

Honestly you kindly fucked Honey with the time you sent it, the rate doesn't really matter if you sent it hours after and the price dropped. When you should of sent the payment instantly and he would of got the full amount and this would of never happened. I'd cut your loses and take the rate as it is the same rate, Bitcoin is just at a lower volume ATM.

How is change in price honey's fault? He paid what he got.

Yes, sadly this is how HF is now it seems. Honey Singh bro just send him the money, like you said, money isn't an issue for you. Is it better to feel like your right about something, or to make your customers happy? The ladder is the choice that will get you more customers, and keep them happy.
