I made €13.000 with my shop and never lost a PayPal case after a chargeback.

Now I made this tutorial for you, to have the same success!

Great price for a product that can save you thousands of dollars in a chargeback.

I loved reading your e-book since it wasn't static, you had pictures and you made me want to read it all.

This guide requires you to be able to send a box/mail but that's really much it as for requirements.

Overall, this is my honest opinion and this guide is definitely worth the $10.

Quote: ryan?

Had the opportunity to look over this guide and can honestly say it's well worth the $10 it's being sold for. It's written very thoroughly, including many pictures and step-by-step guides on what to do.

It's organized extremely well being separated out into different sections to outline the whole process from start to finish. While this does require some work, I can honestly see this being useful and helpful in winning a chargeback and would definitely give this guide my vouch.

That is a lie. All they have to do is call their bank and say they did not get what the agreed upon and they contacted the seller. Or show any-means of proof against you. Bank will reverse that charge right away and they have 60 days I believe. You can not UN-chargeback. You can try to show your proof but in the end you have to abide by visa, MC, or amex policy which is VERY customer friendly.

Also in the case of fraud bs as well. Paypal is a business.

When i deliver the codes, buyers dispute a paypal case saying that their card was not used by them, and i lose it everytime since paypal doesn't cover selling digital goods.

Op, how long will this work for and how safe is it? Limited copies available? Will it keep me safe even from idiots that decide to chargeback very little in a reasonable amount of time to where I won't be wasting more time than it's worth?

Edit: And say someone actually gets their card stolen and some asshole adds the card to their account and sends me the money. Will I be safe even from unauthorized transactions reported by the card company? (These seem to be the hardest type to fix!)

Edit: And say someone actually gets their card stolen and some asshole adds the card to their account and sends me the money. Will I be safe even from unauthorized transactions reported by the card company? (These seem to be the hardest type to fix!)

To be honest I dont use my system under $5 chargebacks and yes you will also win an "unauthorized transactions" chargeback. Thats the most benefit from this ebook.

This guide is for digital goods. And will only work on "Unauthorized Claims".

This guide will NOT work for SNAD cases, or anything you physically ship.

The guide says "Win All Cases" but that just is not true.

To win "Significantly Not as Described" I cases you need little of common sense tbh.
99% of chargebacks are "Unauthorized Claims" in my experience, but thanks for the feedback. I will make it more precise.

Until now all my costumers were satisfied

"Never lose a PayPal case"

You cannot claim 99% of chargebacks are unauthorized. Maybe if you are selling to sketchy users.
Should have said "Win all unauthorized claims". However, even when selling a physical product, and using the method here, you can still lose cases.

Anyway, if you change your mind about selling a method to dispute friends and family payments, send me a message. if the method you have is paying through bank or credit card then charging back from it then don't.

teamnycz - November 27, 2018, 10:47 pm

Hmm, I sold virtual/digital good before and got charged back for it. Won all disputes and have sufficient proof with several staffs agreeing with me about how buyer did a chargeback for unauthorized charge which was actually him. Everything from emails to messages to what he was saying matched and was obvious but at the end I was still responsible for the sum and got my account disabled. This could of been prevented 100%? I don't see how. I tried everything =/ Even threatened to take paypal to small claims court and also filed BBB complaint and nothing. I just didn't have the funds or i'll surely sue their ass.
