Thread: Adopted an orphan baby monkey

BillysBadFurDay - December 23, 2017, 2:24 pm

I adopted a baby monkey after I found him on the side of the road next to his mother's lifeless body. The baby didn't know what to do and was sad and crying so I decided to take him with me and help raise him. So I decided to daily post a YouTube video of our baby monkey so everyone can see him. Go to YouTube and search for "Binker the Stinker", since this forum won't let me post the direct link to my youtube channel.

Nice monkey. I subscribed and look forward to seeing more videos of him.

That's pretty cool. I've always wanted to own a monkey.

Ytube - December 23, 2017, 3:40 pm

When he grows older, do you have a suitable place for him to live? I've never owned a monkey so I don't know much about keeping them as pets.

Febreze - December 23, 2017, 3:41 pm

Are you experienced with exotic animals? You should get him checked out or something. b

HEISENPUG - December 23, 2017, 3:48 pm

Pretty dope monkey as a pet. Always wanted an exotic animal of my own. :D

hello98321 - December 23, 2017, 4:53 pm

PubgGod - December 24, 2017, 1:05 am

Definitely get him checked out, also be aware that part of owning a monkey means you will get bit at some point. But they are very expressive, smiling is not too nice in primate language btw, and is considered as a threat display. Lets see baby diapers can be used. I am not too overly experienced with monkeys/primates but if you find yourself with some kind of issue, there are some pretty good people in the exotics community. I remember before katrina hit I helped transport a female lioness to Texas it was all done on a handshake, so there are good people.

I will look at the video once I get a chance and don't be scared to ask when you are a new exotic parent.

It's like a small child... but worse.

Stories I've heard throughout my past of them flinging their shit and stealing things, became a reality.

I had a baby marmoset a few years back and couldn't handle it. They take over your life.

Did you pet her? I would love to be around a big cat. I love big animals.

Cyber - January 21, 2018, 12:58 pm

I've always wanted a monkey! that is soo sweet I've always loved how you can train them and they learn rather quickly honestly. I'd hangout with the monkey everyday and bring him with me and trust me it would be a conversation starter if you need a girlfriend lol. I'm not too sure if you can have a monkey where I live though which kind of sucks we can't even have pigs in our backyard that kind of sucks.

One animal I've always wanted was a fainting goat lollll I'd sit and scare it all the time so it fell over it's so cute.

wtf, I haven't had a pet for years and you're out here having a monkey. They're quite dope and very intelligent if you train them well.

That is until they grow older and start biting you...

Not a good idea raising a monkey.

Kuso - February 6, 2018, 2:40 pm

Dang.

I would like to adopt one.

They follow it into the jungle to eat bananas and become Tarzan.

I mean, the man live the good life. He had many movies made after him, real talk.
