The website is free, this website is for view if a username/email/ip is reported like a scammer.

FREE, 100%!

Although you may have good intentions. If you search username "Silicon Valley" and project "HFalert" you will see that these projects are not received well and there are several things that can go wrong and that will probably have a bad effect on your account.

Vyxn - December 28, 2017, 5:53 pm

I just tried your website.

Maybe change how you display the result.

Positive means, confirmed to be a scammer. You should change it to Negative if the user is not in your database.

Anyway, I don't think many user would use it all the time but good luck in your project. You may also want to add some api for other application to use it.

Saltpeter - December 28, 2017, 6:00 pm

Considering you are a new member, are you aware of the deal dispute database on Hack Forums?

I'm predicting plenty of false positives.

Hey everyone!

We check ALL report.

We often check our database. We will also provide email replies to all those who ask to no longer be in by asking for accurate and real evidence.

We spend at least 10 minutes per report to check it.

Thank you for your understanding, and also why not post a maximum of scammers on the site!

You can report everyone type of scammer.

You are missing the point to why we are saying this wont work.

We had a member create a similar service and naturally, people around here abused it to harass other members.

We are not saying the site is a bad idea, we are saying it wont work for THIS site.

Further you have had numerous members who have seen this same thing happen numerous times and you are debating with us it wont be the case this time.

Except that website is serious.

We are wary of every warning.

You can use this service for any type of scam on eBay etc.

Certainly I shared it on HF, but this is not meant to be synchronized.

The "deal disput" category does that very well.

That's why if you get scammed on categories out of HF must / can report a scammer.

if someone cant even submit a DD on here there's no way in hell they would submit one on your site. its doesnt matter if it works for ebay, amazon or your grandmas cookie site. if your offering it here on hf then all we care about is if the scammer scammed ON hf. admin has stated before that deals that happen offsite is useless. nice thought of what u trying to do but hackforums is not the place for you to try and put your stamp on stopping scammers.

You say you verify and check every report, but as a 3rd party to any report it is impossible for you to verify any of the information provided.
Plain and simple. People lie, People are manipulative, and people will cheat the system.

What is to stop me from filing a report for say an ebay transaction that went personally find, but I photoshop the proof to indicate I never got the item, or something else?

How can you as a 3rd party individual verify if those provided images and information is accurate or not?

You can't it is impossible.
This is why ebay, Amazon and any other company has their own dispute process, they have access to the information required to make a determination. You do not.

You say your website is multi-purpose. You offer look up based on an username but what if it's a common username, wouldn't it lead to false-positives?

Your result messages are inverted. I'm doing a scammer look up and it says 'positive', this should mean that the person's a scammer, right?

Using reCaptcha for a scammer lookup? Plain annoying. You can find better captcha solutions.

Sites with a similar concept exist, but they are mostly based on a SPECIFIC area of interest.

Having a multi-purpose scammer list won't be nearly as effective as catering to a certain niche/community will, ever. Good examples are <https://rep.tf/> and <https://steamrep.com>. You see how these sites are useful to Steam users or TF2 players, but who's the target audience for your site?

Data. Your lookup is way too simple. I type a word and it says "go deal with him" or "person's a scammer" but the site does not provide any PROOF whatsoever for the result.

Your site doesn't have any social media profiles, reputation is nonexistent. I know it's a startup but you'll eventually need to focus on building a certain reputation if you plan to succeed with this project of yours.

Staff (Admins/Mods)? One person can't handle a broad, multi-purpose large database of scammers.

This is the same issue that I have with this "service", how can you know what "evidence" to trust?

Also, you say it's for all sites and services. So what if I for example look for a suername on steam, how could it find the right person on that? -and what about all the other forums, usernames are not locked to person, anyone else can for example use "my" username on any other forum or site.

You should make this service "linked" with just one other service or site, like steamrep.com does.

Hey,

You can search E-mail, Username, IP, so you must ask the email of your dealer before any deal for cheack on CheckScammer.

So, if a person use your username and if your username is like "Trump" or "Bitcoin.", you be maybe in our Database. For delete your username, if is a username like "Trump" or "Bitcoin." etc, ask me and give me your email adresse and in the website we can view :

Code Negative! Trump is reported! Reason:
Don't send the money in a exchange

But this email :
Your email@.com is clean, and its not a scammer.

Belzebuth, I agree with a lot of what has been said already by some of the forum members but I encourage you to take all of the feedback you have received here and on any other sites you may have posted and continue to work on your project. Make a list of all the negative things you see in this thread and tackle them one by one. Obviously you are not the first one to think of this and most definitely not the last. First of all, this is a really dumb idea though and the only advantage I can see is you using it to scam others and gaining trust on this forum.

- There are going to be a lot of false positives.
- This is not going to prevent scamming, it's only going to limit other legit businesses.
- And lastly, why did you create your HF account just to advertise this site?
- This can be used for scammers to gain trust, in a way.

Biggest problems are that you have to include an email and other details but may not have them?

Apart from those basic issues, there are fundamental issues with this plan, especially since you're telling people to go ahead and deal just because they're not in your database.

This needs to exist in 1 single community, as people with the same usernames/popular usernames will be shown as scammers.

Why would you sell this website if your business is/were serious? Don't give up that easily, people are not trash-talking (most of them) but giving you advice and their feedback because similar websites were published and failed one-by-one. HF have already implement Deal Dispute Database which can be located here: <https://hackforums.net/disputedb.php>

Thus, you should explain why someone would use your website instead of the HF's default one to report an scammer?

As for me, I was going to use it and add 2 reports but once I saw recaptcha, I instantly quit. There are better alternatives out there than recaptcha.

Nonetheless, good luck with your site OP. (Don't give up)

@vincent - December 31, 2017, 3:39 am

If you say, it is not only for HF, but also for sites like eBay etc, how would that go?

I mean someone with the eBay username "Example" could be a scammer but the HF user can be 1000% trustworthy, how would that show up?

Malicious` - December 31, 2017, 3:47 am

Nice idea but needs to be worked out a lot more. Scammers should show up in Google for example, so not everyone has to go to your website every time and then fill in some stupid captcha.

Also needs proof and reasoning.

Hey,

Yes im selling the project because you do not trust me, you think than i cannot verify report etc. So, im selling this project for a low price, contact me in PM if interested.

You don't like the website, so why continued ?

Example: So, if 1 person or 10 people people, dislike my crypter, it means I should stop my project? You are not here to please everyone, you can't please everyone and that shouldn't be your intention at all.

If you like this project, you should keep it, improve it, make it unique and of course never give up. If you can prove to those people that you can verify reports and such, then do it.

I don't see the problem since they only gave their opinion and feedback and you have the opportunity to prove them/him wrong.

Have a nice day buddy.

As I told you, I could and would help you but you don't even want that. It's a good project but you simply can't handle the feedback that you get nor the criticism. If you would actually get this up and running properly then you would most likely fall and crumble once the hate and appeals would start to roll in. It's sad to be honest.

Don't get me wrong, I can still help you, however if you wait too long then I'll completely delegate my time to other thins and forget about your project.

I have more than enough experience so yeah, I can share that. First of all this needs to be focused on something, can't be all over the place. Then comes the content creation...and so on...

But hey, it's positive, we have a hit...

@Belzebuth - would be better if it would just say "no special reputation yet" or something like that. To blindly state that a user is safe to deal with doesn't work.

Also one thing that has been forgotten here, what about impersonators..?

Please, before any deal ask the email at your dealer.

A IP Adresse is private, and a E-mail too :)

Also problem solved :

Negative! Belzebuth is not reported!

Positive! Tando is reported! Reason:

Don't send the money in a exchange

And i don't start any service so 0% for me :)

No problem mate, i understand what you think :)

Thanks :)

Step 1: Figure out what platform(s) and or forum(s) you want to focus on.

Step 2: Check all those and make sure that each and every user profile has some sort of unique ID's that can be somewhat easily found (usernames can be changed).

Step 3: Make a list of those platforms and forums and shoot me a pm with those. Then we can go from there.

Optional: Get Cloudflare DDoS Protection.

Yes, but I'm going to rely on Discord / Steam (which leaves old username logs) Skype and XMPP
I will also trust the email if the victim put it in the report :)

Before you start expanding you should change the design (and the logo) and make the forms more userfriendly.

Good project tho, best of luck!

I guess that those are the sites that you use yourself? -anyhow, some of those I don't see how this could be implemented in to since some already have their own reputation/feedback system and some of the forums are not dedicated to trading. Steam is a good example, there's no point in trying to compete with steamrep, that would just be a waste of time and money.

By the looks of the type of forums that you have listed it kinda makes me wonder...when you first started this you didn't exactly know which way to go with your idea...my guess is that a "better" way (or an optional way) would have been to make a forum based site where people can collect their feedback and reputation (kinda like the steam group "csgorep" but with mods and admins that can't be bribed). If one would make a forum based site like that then it could cover both services and trades easily (even steam), however this is something that would require well trained staff.

Ideas and thoughts about this feedback?

I like what you're trying to do, but I feel like it will end up having some false positives.

But then again, nothing is 100% perfect.

I like what you're doing though.
