Thread: shitty grades but good sat score?

Joeka - January 1, 2018, 5:15 pm

i have like a 70 avg and dont really care about going to a good college but my sat score was really good I got like a 1500. I want to go to a city college where i live do you think thats enuf? i dont know if i should regret doing bad in high school or not lol, whatever

That SAT score over weighs ur c avg, so like ur fine going anywhere u please.

"Enuf" nope sorry no college is going to accept you.

There's no point of asking if you should regret high school now it's too late. You should be able to get into most public universities and many private institutions with that SAT score.

Go to community college (or wherever) get good grades, transfer out to somewhere better. Shitty grades -> improved grades = good image for colleges.

but i just cant get good grades no matter what i physically cant do hw, i studied for sat but thats only test i ever studied for lol

What exactly makes you not be able to physically do HW? Broken arm? Broken hand? No hand? No arm?

The reason I don't (not can't cuz can't = pussy shit) get good grades is cuz I'd literally rather do nothing than homework.

Anyone can get into a community college, you could prob get into most state universities that have low acceptance requirements. Just make sure you get good grades in your first 2 years of classes. They won't even ask you for your high school grades if you have an associates degree and transfer to a 4 year university.

idk man its just too much time and frustrating

So why do you plan on going to college if you can't even get good grades in high school? You'll likely fail college if you don't do the HW well, so if you can't even handle HW in high school I wouldn't even bother with college honestly.

You won't get into Harvard, but you could get into the city college of your choice with a good enough SAT score with a C GPA.
