These are yours?

I've seen someone on Fiverr have the same exact ones, especially the first one.
I bought a banner from the guy on Fiverr since I was too lazy to make my own.

People on Fiverr steal other people's work and display it on their store pages as 'examples' of whatever category they're selling (eg displaying the Apple logo as an example of a logo). This is a loophole in Fiverr's rules. Obviously people who then click on their store page may assume that the displayed work was created by that artist on Fiverr - usually this isn't the case. Thus you'll often find that there's a significant difference in quality between what they display on their store page and what they actually produce...

Edit: nice avatar. Funeral Suits? ;)

Is this an advertisement thread? If so, I don't think it belongs in the main GFX forum.

In the one with the beach, the text should be reflecting.

None of them have reflection from anywhere, just a stock, Cinema4d render and a color correction in most.
