Thread: [\[Orcus Technologies / My Activity \]](#)

Armada - January 14, 2018, 12:05 am

Given how normally interactive I am on the site, I wish to notify (especially my Orcus Customers) That I am in fact dealing with an IRL issue at the moment which has resulted in a close family member being hospitalized. Say the least my participation will be "less than usual".

All Orcus purchases will be processed as usual, however due to time constraints and the fact the Hospital has Hackforums blocked, it makes my central access limited. SO licenses may be delayed until I get home after visitation. BTC payments are still automated, but I know majority of people are using PP due to the fees, and I earnestly do not blame anyone.

Regards. ?

Good luck.

It has been a real roller coaster the last couple of days no doubt, I am sure a few have noticed I am not my "Spicy self" ?

I have a great concern, so my attention is gonna be else where for a while. I feel thi was needed to advise so people do not think I am flaking out like some others have previously.

Just life bull shit... But I already KNOW its gonna draw my attention away. so A CA for everyone to advise.... heh... ?

Things will get better man. Take all the time you need to stay with your family members.
