Thread: [\[Official Group\] Red Lions - Open Recruitment](#)

Lrrr - January 17, 2018, 7:25 pm

Now Recruiting

Requirements Must have been a member of HF for at least 6 full months.

Warning level is subject to inspection upon application review.

No open/unresolved scam reports.

Negative reputation is subject to inspection upon application review.

What are the Red Lions?

The Red Lions are a group of members who work together to make Hack Forums a better place. We protect the marketplace, report spam, illegal products, and sales trashers. We help each and every member with all aspects of Hack Forums by knowing every rule, policy, and detail within the Help Docs. We are well versed in various subject areas with the intent of helping the community. Red Lion members are expected to conduct themselves maturely forum-wide, with no exceptions. We do not endorse any form of trolling or inappropriate content. We've gained what we have given: respect. With that we turn average members into Red Lions.

Personal Application:

Personal Application Criteria

We believe that the Red Lion application process should be open to interpretation. We ask that you apply to the Red Lions in any way you feel will get our attention. We want you to provide ample reasoning as to why you deserve to be a Red Lion in a way that expresses your interests.

Current Leaders

Lrrr and Confound will act as the main point of contact for this recruitment. Direct any inquiries to them.

What to do after you apply

1. Do not private message group members if your application hasn't been processed yet. Each and every applicant will receive a response.
2. If denied, feel free to reapply next recruitment unless instructed otherwise.
3. Only post once if you are applying, and only your application should be posted. Off-topic replies to the thread will hurt your chances.

4. Applications will be reviewed once the recruitment has come to an end and the thread is closed.
5. Do not apply via CP or you will be denied.

There is no scheduled time this recruitment will end. DO NOT post placeholder applications. Only full applications will be processed.

Confound - January 17, 2018, 7:26 pm

Good luck applicants. Take your time with the application, and be thorough. I look forward to reading :)

Regulus - January 17, 2018, 7:32 pm

Really looking forward to read all the applications!
Good luck everyone :)

How can you contribute to the group?

Activity, money, basic things that most groups need in order to stay active. The same thing a lot of groups are missing and end up dying from. Activity, activity, activity. This is probably one of the only groups I have ever applied for as I did back in the day. Only being kicked from the group because of my account being locked out of.

Basically I can bring whatever you need to the group. If you go through any of my previous posts, yes you will find some light hearted goofing off in certain sections, but you can also find me trying to help people around the site that might not know HF too well. Or find those who are in need of help because of scammers in the market place. Or perhaps within the iOS section (my old stomping grounds). Basically over all, I can be of help to anywhere on the form that I have knowledge within, and make sure to uphold the Red Lion name.

I am capable of making tutorials and helpful threads as indicated by my previous threads/tutorials/help desks listed below. (yes they are somewhat old, but only to prove a point)

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

It means pride. Actually being proud to be in a group and wearing a userbar. It's a constant, seeming as it has been the group that has stayed throughout the years and has not changed regardless of what is going on on HF. When I was first in it, it really was a family. You could actually talk to the users, no expect trolling and actually get help on both forum issues and personal issues. Pride. Family. A constant. Infinite. Loyalty, something that nokia showed to the site in his time he was able to spend here.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I work 3 days on, 4 days off. So 4 days of my time and any time after or before work if needed.

I know my application isnt huge by any means, but a chance to join Red Lions again is a reason to actually apply for a group and want to be active. Thanks for at least considering.

SIM-2273342 - January 17, 2018, 7:40 pm

How can you contribute to the group? I can contribute to the group in a few different mannerisms. First and foremost, I have some decent experience in regards to leading a group and operating the ins-and-outs; thus, I know the necessity of active members. On top of that, I have taken a significant interest in regards to Crypto investing and have joined an array of Discord and Telegram groups who discuss options and investment advice. The contributions to the group would be consistent and constant; plus, I look forward to joining a group that has been around since essentially the inception of my time here.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? To me, the Red Lion group has remained as the singular most prominent and respected group on here. Quite frankly, members with this userbar garner a significant amount of respect and credibility solely through their wielding of the UB.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? While I am attending college full-time, I shouldn't have an issue in contributing to the group daily. Honestly, I have taken a step back from HF entirely as I've lost interest in anything besides crypto and my assignment service; although, this could be the spark I need.

Personal Application:

What makes you stand out? Quite frankly, there are a wide array of members who deserve a spot in Red Lions. The group has become somewhat dead and likely hasn't made a massive impact on the newer members of the forum. I stand out through my experience as a group leader as well as the impact the group made on me towards the beginning of my stay on the forum.

Do you have any ideas in regards to group contribution? Generally speaking, yes. When I was the primary leader of Eclipse, we had compiled a decent list of ideas that would further the forum in regards to inspiring higher activity from members as well as a few different competitions that we thought would be interesting.

I appreciate the time that you have taken in reading this application. Best of luck to all others taking an interest.

Ghost.13 - January 17, 2018, 7:55 pm

How can you contribute to the group?

I'm a web and mobile applications developer under the NodeJS platform for almost 4 years now. I can contribute to the group by making coding, technical, and professional tutorials. I can also lend a hand to group projects or individual ventures any member may have.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Honor. As one of the longest running user group in HF, being a member of Red Lion is an honorable position to be in this forum. It also means loyalty and passion because of the same principle.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I can do around 20 hours per week on group activities.

Personal Application:

As a long time member of the forum, I really look forward to join this prestigious user group because I want to know if, after all these years just being a regular contributor of this forum, I can do better and learn more by joining the ranks of the elders of this community. The actual pioneers of this forum, so to say. Red Lions did not survive for so long without the efforts of its members, and I wanted to know what it actually takes for that to happen so that I can also further contribute to other user groups that I'm a member of and the whole community in general.

Thanks for this opportunity. Good luck to all participants.

?BowmanBot? - January 17, 2018, 8:07 pm

How can you contribute to the group?

I can contribute by adding my business knowledge and my view on life. I have been through a tonne of shitty situations and can offer advice and condolences to users whom have shared similar situations. Shit will happen but only you can make it better. Always learn. Always Progress. Always Improve.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

The name Red Lions brings back memories when I was active throughout 2014-2015. I took a break from Hack Forums for a year and a bit but it is amazing that this group has been around this long. It sucks that the Nokia has been inactive this long but I am sure that Confound and Alone Vampire have great plans for this group.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I can devote at least 10 hours a week, however, I am flexible if tasks need to be done.

Personal Application:

With half of the groups being owned in a monopoly I believe change needs to happen. Groups that are still owned by devoted members have to take a stand to bring back meaning to custom groups. Custom groups aren't just an investment, they are a major landmark in what Hack Forums stands for. Members teaching, helping and improving each other's skills. I would love to be a part of this movement and currently working to do this with one group. If I am able to bring this mentality into other groups as well this movement it could truly bring the meaning and quality of groups back to the forums.

NoSuchAgency - January 17, 2018, 8:19 pm

How can you contribute to the group? I could contribute to the group by being active in the marketplace, looking out for all of our newer (and older) members. I've always been a relatively HQ guy in my opinion. I have been looking for a reason to pickup my activity again, and as here soon I will be working from home almost all of my time will be spent on the computer. I would love the opportunity to join this prestigious group! I am a web developer and could offer my services in that aspect. I am relatively fluent in PHP, MySQL, HTML, CSS, I'm still learning JS and I have loads of other things I am looking into learning. Right now I am dedicating a lot of time to making as much money as I can, and will be able to give back to the community. By the end of the year I am aiming for 10 sources of income. I'd love to write about my experiences along the way as well. I know I would make a great addition for you guys, and I hope you consider me in this once-in-a-thousand-years opportunity to join the most respected group on HF. 2018 is the year for great transformation, and I would be honored to join the ranks of some of the most respected members in this community!

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? The Red Lions name has always been the most prestigious group on HF, in my time here I've seen countless huge donations, and countless Red Lions helping out around HackForums, and they (as a whole) have always brought nothing but the best to our big HF Family. I have always wanted to be a part of this group. I strongly believe in charity as well, and I usually donate whenever I have the opportunity (Like at a grocery store for example)

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? I can easily do a couple hours a day or so. That should be more than enough time for me to contribute in whatever it is we would be doing that week! I can make extra time if I really need too. (Especially in the coming months when my business takes off and I quit my 9-5.)

Personal Application:

I know my application isn't the longest, writing never has been my strong point. I know however that you are making the right choice to consider me for this group. I know I will be able to bust out some good tutorials (Probably video tutorials!). Just in the last couple months I have decided to completely overhaul my life. I've had some unfortunate things happen and I've lost people I thought I would always have in my life. That along with some other personal issues have given me the motivation to become my greatest version. I go to the gym every day so I can finally achieve my dream body, I am taking online courses, and I start college this upcoming August. I am opening a business with my irl business partner, and I will be likely going on YouTube as well, to pursue a hobby of video production and editing. I recently learned that I really enjoy photoshop, so I am also teaching myself graphics design. I am ambitious, I am a budding entrepreneur, and I believe I would fit right in! I am constantly expanding my knowledge so I can become the greatest version of myself possible and I know the opportunity to join this group will not only motivate me to better myself, it'll motivate me to provide back to the community I have been in for so many years of my life now. Thanks so much for your time and may the odds be in our favor! ?

The-Fluffy-Kitty - January 17, 2018, 8:21 pm

How can you contribute to the group?

I could contribute to Red Lions in many ways, I can offer services (music/audio production, design, salescopy editing, etc.), I can help individuals within the group if they may need assistance, and I can help with group projects. I strive to continually learn, grow and am an expert at working the google on the internet machine. I am also quite active on the forum and would contribute as much as I could.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

The name Red Lion is a very powerful, noble and dominant group name. As someone who chose a feline username, I can really appreciate the magnitude of the name.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I could devote a fair amount of time. Likely everyday for a few hours or more if needed.

Personal Application:

Thank you for taking the time to read my application. If there are any further questions or anything feel free to PM me anytime.

Best of luck to all applicants!

oRequiem - January 17, 2018, 8:23 pm

How can you contribute to the group? I am active for about 90% of my day every single day. Every time I see spam, rules being broken and people that need help, I take action the best I could. I also do Graphic Design, I might be able to help out some members who need some Graphics for whatever reason it may be.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? Since the beginning of Red Lions, I've always wanted to join, but never had the time to attempt to join. I can see that there are some nice/chill people in the group, I feel like I would be a great fit.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? Maybe around 7 - 9 hours per week, but it does depend on what the activities are.

Personal Application:

I will be completely honest, I'm not sure what I could write for Personal Application so I will tell you a little bit of myself so you have a better understanding of my personality and who I am.

So ever since I could remember, I've been gaming on console and after the years, I slid into the computer scene which graphic design, private investigation, music creating (Preferably EDM, Dubstep, Underground Rap Beats, Rap Beats, Trap, Glitchhop and Trance) and much more. Once I got a computer, I started my youtube channel which actually helped me out to afford a custom gaming pc which I have still and currently upgrading. Around when I started graphic designing, I started getting interested in private investigating.

Looking forward to a response, thanks for the opportunity!

Please feel free to take your time with the Personal Application section. This can be ANYTHING from a single sentence, to a full essay, video, game, website, app, etc.

Armada - January 17, 2018, 8:36 pm

How can you contribute to the group? I know all site policy(s), I contribute to the best of abilities, even, when in repetition. Willing to push further and encourage more communal activity.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? Respect, Understanding, And above all, A Not only knowledge of the site which we all reside in, but a total understanding of how and which way we are "governed" - so to speak. (Can not think of a better explanation right now)

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? I spend 12+ hours @ terminal per day, and I am honestly dying of being bored, so give me something to do!

Personal Application:

I know majority of Red Lions members, and overall I believe I get get along with you all. nokia2mon is still a mystery to me.

I hope my application is considered. ?

[img]http://#/XPjO9k.png[/img] I can contribute myself to the group. You won't get any problem on me as I don't and won't cause any trouble in the future. I am also a helpful member and greets everyone with positivity. I am also an active participant in the forum and expect my post on every thread in the group.

[img]http://#/AIn5PD.png[/img]

[img]http://#/XPjO9k.png[/img] Most great members was in this group. I am newly member but I already saw your member's activity and it looks so great. I thought you'll never do this open recruitment as your group choose the member strictly. If I get a chance to be part of your group, I would surely appreciate it. This group has the only one I see that has a serious plan for this community.

[img]http://#/8SE5s4.png[/img]

[img]http://#/XPjO9k.png[/img] I am online 10hrs+ a day if I got some free time or 5hrs+ a day if I there's a school activity.

Steve - January 17, 2018, 10:47 pm

Preface

Xerotic and Steve will be applying to Red Lions as a duo. We find that we contribute to Hack Forums best as a team and therefore would like to be considered for the group as a single entity. By accepting this application, you accept both members. By denying, you deny both.

How can you contribute to the group?ACTIVITY

- Extensive Hack Forums policy knowledge
- Initiative for projects
- Genuine drive to support the community
- Limited financial support

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

The Red Lions group throughout its existence has changed hands in leadership while members have come and gone, but what has not changed is the quality and valor of the group and its ranks. Groups in HF history have come and gone. Groups are sold, re-branded, and go on a stint until the process repeats. Not the Red Lions. The Red Lions is the longest standing custom group on Hack Forums. It has kept the same name and userbar for years, which shows the group's stability. The Red Lions have an unwavering commitment towards the forum and each Red Lions member is dedicated towards treating each HF member with respect.

To be a Red Lion is to represent ourselves, the forum, and the group. It is to be an example for all members. It is to teach and to help.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

We each log into HF every day and can contribute a combined 10-15 hours per week to the group.

Personal Application:

Xerotic and Steve have both individually proven their quality and dedication to Hack Forums over the years. To take things to the next level, we have decided that we can best contribute to the forum as a team. Combining the skill sets of both members allows us to do anything at a higher level of quality and efficiency. Between us we have contributed to the site in every way imaginable. Such contributions include (but are not limited to):Moderation at the Mentor and Staff levels

- HF News and Wiki
- Stuck threads/guides
- $2000+ in HF donations
- HF userscripts
- HF backend/plugin coding
- 1 year combined online time
- 10+ years registered
- Group leadership
- Consistently high quality and helpful posts

Being IRL friends, we have a unique association that is not found between any other pair of members on the site. We constantly feed off each other and contributing to the forum almost becomes a competition, while being a group effort at the same time. We can be best described as a positive feedback loop wherein the activity of one user amplifies and encourages the activity of the other. Our status as IRL friends allows and encourages us meet in person to work on projects for the forum, as well as think of new ways to contribute that couldn't be done otherwise.

Below you will find a comprehensive list of threads we have contributed to the forum:

Biggy - January 17, 2018, 10:50 pm

How can you contribute to the group?

I contribute a lot to Hack Forums, such as tutorials, donations, legitimate sales deals, keeping the marketplace clean, etc. Ever since I joined here, I've become instantly addicted, to being one of the best members I can be. What I can contribute to Red Lions, is my high quality nature under the groups name. I'm going to continue contributing as much as I possible can to this forum, from giveaways all the way up to tutorials. Hopefully it never ends, and hopefully I can do that under the Red Lions name. I can also participate in any group related activities that happen, as I'm pretty much on HF for a majority of my day, even at work I'm browsing HF from my phone. Red Lions is a great group with a good set of members in it, and I'm only interested in making that persona of the group even better.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

High quality. Since I've joined the forum, that's pretty much all I've seen from each member of the group. Constant contributions to the site from every single member of the group. Insanely impressive. That's the standard I want to live up to.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

Any time necessary. I'm on my phone/PC on Hack Forums every day, constantly browsing/posting/participating.

Personal Application:

Well hello there, my name is Brian, I go by the name of Biggy around here. When I first came back around here, my sole intent was to make money. That was all I pretty much wanted to do in the long run, but as I spent more and more time here, I slowly realized that I actually really enjoy this community. I have a total 1 month and 2 weeks online time, and honestly. most of that is probably legitimately me browsing the site. That's just genuinely how much I enjoy the forum. Since I've been here it's pretty much been my sole mission to try and be as high quality as I can, and contribute as much as I can. Whenever I do things, I just genuinely put a lot of effort into what I enjoy, and enjoy is definitely and enjoyable time for me. Some people enjoy video games, other people enjoy sports, I enjoy this forum. During my short time here, I've already been apart of the HF News Team, as well as the HF Wiki Team and have done a sustainable amount of work on both. Unfortunately, both of those projects are no longer contributed on HF so I'm not able to work on them any longer, but I hope that would go hand and hand with showing my effort to the community. So I want to continue to do what I do, but under the Red Lions name. The group, and the members, are definitely something I have a lot of respect for. You guys recruit only the highest of quality, which to me would be an honor.

Just recently I've made 3 guides, 2 of which have been stickied on the forums:

"How do I start working out?" | Beginner's Fitness Guide
The Ultimate Overwatch Beginner's Guide
[\[GUIDE\] How to start streaming on Twitch](#)

[\[Socialites\] Fitness Advice: Ask me anything](#)

These are the kind of guides and contributions I want to continue to make to the forums.

So why specifically do I want to join Red Lions so bad? Well, I'm mainly looking for an opportunity to be apart of an HQ group long-term. I was recently apart of Socialities, and I was excited for that to be the main group I would continue in long-term, but unfortunately the group was sold and most of the HQ members of the group have left. I'm also a leader of a group currently, known as Famous. That is something I would also continue on the side of being apart of Red Lions. It would be extra awesome if Red Lions could pickup some of the higher quality members that were in Socialites, such as Maxim/Steve/Xerotic/Assassin/Views/etc. Those guys are all hella dedicated and it would be awesome to see them in the group as well.

So anyway, if you've made it this far in my application, then thanks for reading. I know I tend to drag things out with my typing but I just wanted to get my point across of how dedicated I am/how dedicated I'm going to continue to be on this forum, and hopefully I'll be able to do that under the prestigious RL name.

Drug Problems - January 18, 2018, 9:40 am

How can you contribute to the group? I am an active member of Hackforums. I enjoy helping others, interacting, meeting business partners and overall making new friends. I like to share my knowledge with anyone willing to listen. I know programming, social media management and a few other assets. On top of my useful knowledge I have a lot of knowledge in vices and gaming. I am easy to be friends with and very respectful at all times.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? Red Lions to me has always been one of the highest respected groups on Hackforums. Red Lion has some of the best members on Hackforums and is all about helping people and bettering the community in every way possible.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? I am usually free all of the time. I love participating and would to the best of my ability for every group activity held.

Personal Application:

I am easy to get along with and can debate without causing actual arguments or fights. I believe I'd be a good fit for Red Lions. I'm very good with private investigation and helping other people and members as best as I can in anything I have knowledge in.

NGMA - January 18, 2018, 9:48 am

How can you contribute to the group?: Knowledge of being a blackhat and the repercussions of living that lifestyle, mentoring, anything that the group needs.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? It is the most high quality group, privy to only the most high quality members who strive for excellence and helping others.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? I currently work, it frequent the site throughout the day and could devote as much time as I'm able to be on Hackforums to the Red Lions.

Personal Application: I am 23 years old, born and raised in Florida. Over the last few years, I was involved in a lot of illegal activity, which profited me more than a million dollars, but costed me my freedom and the ability to ever pursue a job in the computer or tech fields. I've spent majority of the last two years in federal facilities facing the consequences for those actions and poor lifestyle choices, now I strive to be a youth mentor. I live a humble life now, I'm an avid reader and video game player (not so much in recent times), I take pride in whatever I do and do it with integrity. I have vast knowledge of technology and am by no means an expert in many fields. I enjoy poetry and writing as ways to pass time. In conclusion, I am a former blackhat who wants to right his wrongs and teach others the value of true hard work and commitment in life, I want to help others and have done so in the past with various giveaways, but this time I want to help others in a non materialistic way.

Thank you for taking the time to read my application, I know it's not the best but I put my heart on my sleeve while writing this.

Good luck to all applicants!

How can you contribute to the group?

First of i want to continue helping in the wireless SF I will continue my work, helping members, enlighten members about my passion, keeping the subforum clean by reporting threads and continue to be a role model for the new guys that enter the wireless section in HF. My first thought goes to start creating high detailed tutorials again, and make them in such a way it attracts both "new users" and more advanced users. Red Lions used to be about quality and quality is what I'm bringing along when I help others in the wireless SF. I'm a bit old for games and such, but my experience of a lot of things can certainly be interesting for Red Lions. I'm not a natural leader, but to give support when needed, and give everything when it is required, and that is a promise i can deliver on.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Read Lions for me means simply Stability, Quality and Knowledge, however it was a long time since i heard anything from you. This is the ONLY group that remains from back in the days, a lot of groups have been created and sold through the years but Red Lions has always been the same. Red Lions had skilled guys that did their best to support HF in different areas around the forum, and that's what attract me with Red Lions

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

If everything goes as it should, around 4-5 hours a day, normally when the kids are asleep, and a bit more in the weekends if i don't have planned anything with the family. Groups are awesome but family always comes first

Personal Application:

Hi, I'm Mad76e, some of you might know me as Smnfz as well. I'm a family father with an interest in tech and wireless hacking. I got stuck here on the site 2012, while I was looking for ways to get rid of a keylogger a former friend infected me with. Since then I have tried to give back to community what I know best. Why it became wireless hacking, I can't say, but it is what it is. Over the years I have had some periods, some hash cracking for different projects, some small pentesting period etc but I always found my way back to wireless hacking, perhaps because these three are attached to each other in a way. Nowadays I'm just dealing with wireless hacking and book writing, which have become a fun way to earn some extra cash every month. I'm always there for my friends on HF and I'm trying to make HF a better place. My IRL hobbies except hacking related stuff and my kids is genealogy, computer hardware, and friends

One of the things that want me to come back to HF every day is to be with friends or create new friendly networks in my pursuit to get more knowledge. At the moment HackForums are pretty much inactive for a number of reasons, but i think that we all can change that with some hard work and dedication if we all cooperate with each other.

Here my thought was to have a lot of links to tutorials and such but I had an "INFOSEC" moment a couple of months ago just before Omni changed the site, still a very few tutorials survived. I'm just going to link to my helpdesk and to one of the surviving tutorials from the time I was in Empire back in the days; I just couldn't remove that one, to much memories of a good time

I don't know why some groups get stuck with you eyy :)

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5448702> <- Helpdesk

What I more can offer you guys on the personal layer

A dedicated helpful and honest guy that strive to have fun and to help people. Both with wireless hacking but also with other non hacking related stuff as personal things. Im always there for my guys.

How can you contribute to the group? Mainly activity

Knowledge in different areas such as, business advice, accountancy, crypto. Will include more skills later in the application.

Support the group in projects whether they are written guides, news or even donations

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Red Lions is hands down the most high quality group that has ever been/will be on Hack Forums. In my opinion it is a group where everyone strives to become a member. The Red Lions is a group which is here to stay and it would be exciting to become a part of that.

The Red Lions set a brilliant example on how to become a high quality member. Each and every member is respectful, helpful and contribute to the forum in every way they can.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I randomly refresh Hackforums and check quite a number of subforums every day. I would be able to devote at least 10 hours per week in to group activities.

Personal Application:

I first joined Hackforums in 2010 when I was super interested in the Halo section and trying to find different ways to make money online. I soon became addicted to the community when I started to find lots of cool members who I still speak to, some of which are members of the Red Lions! I would love to become a member of the Red Lions and really show you what I can do to help.

I will firstly list a few of my main skills:Accountancy - I am a fully qualified accountant

Business Advice - As well as being an accountant I can also offer clients and other people business advice

Crypto - I have been studying different cryptocurrencies for a year now

A few of my Hackforums contributions:20,000+ total posts

3 Months, 3 Weeks, 6 Days, 21 Hours, 36 Minutes, 15 Seconds online time

Member since 2010

Guide on how to exchange on Poloniex

Over 300$+ donated to Hackforums, I don't know the exact figure but I have upgraded random members and bought awards too

I have done a number of contests, here is one.

Old guide on how to install Kodi

I have also contributed a lot to help different groups with activites etc. Most of my posts are actually in group sections

You may catch me over in the Crypto sections helping out users with different things such as advice, wallet help etc. Quick example from yesterday.

Gained over 1,400+ rep with very few negatives

R3KT usergroup and joined Ub3r in 2011.

Feel free to ask me any questions you may have. Thanks ?

How can you contribute to the group? I've been around on Hack Forums for 2+ years now and I really enjoy helping others around the forums in which ever way possible over the years I've tried to the best of my ability to release content in my own name and under groups I led but I no longer want to lead groups I'd like to participate as a member of the Red Lions and give you guys all of the ideas I can come up with.. I have a few ideas of things I could suggest if I was accepted again, I'd love to see the Red Lions prescence spread across Hack Forums again (if some of this would interest you feel free to PM me and I'd be willing to give some suggestions even if I wouldn't be accepted as I don't really care to lead a group again and It'd be nice to see Lions succeed)

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? Red Lions are the top individual's on Hack Forums under a collective group, upon looking at all of the members you can see it is a top tier group, Eternal.. Regulus... Soulmate.. there's a lot of really helpful guys who've been around... Red Lions also means you'll always be there to help.. I loved that about being in the group and I agree that everyone tries there best to be helpful even after we separated people would come to me for help based off me being a member of the group.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I'd be willing to dedicate whatever time I am online on Hack Forums to Red Lions, I can be extremely active in the sub-forum and just chit chat if needed or I can give extensive feedback towards group ideas/activities

I can assure you upon being accepted I would be participating in every single thread.

Personal Application: My Application from last year.

What are some of your skills?: I haven't acquired many skills since my time here on Hackforums but I came here with skills in social media marketing and I'm also equipped with good social skills and I'm looking to pick up more as time passes.

How can you contribute to the group?: I'm very active in group discussions, and I'm a positive person who does to the best of his ability to help other members out new or old, I would also be willing to work on some tutorials in the name of the group and use the group branding if allowed.

Reason why you want to join?(take some time to fill this section): I'd like to join as ever since I joined the Red Lions group appealed to me due to some of the members in it which stand out in the community at my time of registration Alone Vampire was a staff member, and I would always see Regulas around, over time I've made friends and socialized with many members within the group and feel as I'd fit in, personally I've talked to Eternal. here and there Regulas, iHydra, and I consider Alone a good friend as well, I've also seen Hash G around a good bit, these are more so the members who stand out to me, although I don't know everyone I feel like I'd fit in it given the chance.

In one paragraph, describe your personality: I like to think of myself as an outgoing person, I'm not too shy, and I'm not too rude, I think my sense of humor is quite good, I don't have a heated temper, I'm pretty calm and relaxed and laid back, I enjoy talking about on site activities as much as off, I'm easy to converse with on a magnitude of topics, and I'm not one to judge others.

SIM-2223238 - January 18, 2018, 2:12 pm

How can you contribute to the group? I am an active user and while I'm contributing to the forum I can do it in the name of Red Lions, as Red Lions doesn't have a certain niche at the moment. If it does get a focus then I'll gladly participate.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? Respect, support and loyalty.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? As much as you need, at least 10 hours a week.

Personal Application:

I personally have a huge interest in networking and computers in general, I am a learning web developer (learning PHP atm) and hoping to learn more in the Red Lions group. I also play a lot of games and spend most of my free time on that when I'm not doing anything productive. I am really active on the forum and usually active in the marketplace or lounge.

Saltpeter - January 18, 2018, 3:16 pm

How can you contribute to the group?

Loads and loads of activity.

A genuine willingness to help others succeed.

A dedication to this community.

Participation in any and all group projects wherever I can contribute.

Decent knowledge of Hack Forums site policy.

Expansive knowledge of some video games, the Pokemon series included.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

In one word: prestige. Back when I first registered, stickied threads from members of Red Lions were among many of the first threads I stumbled upon. From the start, it was clear to me which group was on top, after I figured out what exactly groups were of course. I believe a Red Lion is also someone that has the greater interests of the community in mind; they are a user that would easily give of themselves to benefit the community as a whole.

Being a Red Lion also has an absolute finality to it that other groups seem to sorely lack these days. I may be a more recent member, but even when I first joined groups weren't tossed around quite as much as they are these days. One in recent memory didn't even make it two weeks. I believe Red Lions has been the longest standing group for a reason, and I do not take the opportunity of joining lightly. Being a Red Lion gives users the chance to represent the community we all wish to see.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

Having time to put towards the group would not be an issue to me. I am already on this site more than I care to admit weekly.

Personal Application:

Hello there, I'm Aerodactyl, but most people around these parts call me Aero. I joined Hack Forums around a year ago just looking to find information on some Counter Strike: Global Offensive cheats, I ended up stumbling onto something much greater though. On websites I am the type of person that rarely posts; I do doubt I would have ever made this account if unregistered visitors were able to view threads. I ended up falling head first for what I found here.

In my relatively short time here I have always tried to be a positive force in the community, whether it was producing informational threads or something as simple as being the only one in a thread without a toxic reply. I ended up somehow finding my way onto the Hack Forums News Team and massively enjoyed working as a journalist. I eventually began a comparatively small amount of work on the Wiki. I am now also currently working as a "Grammar Nazi" for Authenticate, Security's magazine. I have grown to heavily enjoy working on projects with other members and would certainly pitch in wherever possible within the group.

I think it would be apt to mention that I very rarely make use of the marketplace here on Hack Forums these days, apart from buying the occasional Old School RuneScape gold. I had a short stint of doing currency exchanges a few months ago also, but I don't ever imagine that would be the case again. Meaning, I am far less likely to potentially bring shame to the group through actions within the marketplace as many others have to groups in the past.

I would also like to take a second to address my join date to the site. I doubt I am too far off when I say I am probably one of the newest members applying for this recruitment. I understand that Red Lions is a group heavily intertwined with the history of Hack Forums, and I believe I have contributed enough to make up for at least a little of my absence from what I have heard called the "golden age." I also would not be against further contributing in the group's name in the future. Included below are the contributions I have made that I consider to be notable.

Hi ! I'm Julie Espérance, I gained experience in every field on this forum over the years. I haven't been active much lately because i had personal issue.(PM for the reason)

How can you contribute to the group? I can contribute to Social Working projects and contribution over the forum. I got plenty of ideas and projects for such thing.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? It means Loyalty, Respect, Love. I respect what you all bring to the forums. I followed the progress of RL since it started and i want to be back in for a brief time as my time is currently precious people needs a place to feel home.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? I can devote as much as it needed as i am a Self-Employed men. I Hope to get your attention with the following text and experience below this question.

Personal Application:

Working experience:

1. Social Worker for people that does not have a Home.

Goals: Build a place for homeless people that have personal issue in life such as living in the street or starving.

Before making money online i had personal issue and been in the streets since the age or 22. I had no place to go except some OSBL(Ensoleil Levant in Drummondville.) its a french term google it you'll understand what it means. I met some nice people over the years in such place. When you don't have something to eat or a cigarette to smoke you appreciate the Help you've been given by others. Its respectable they deserve respect and even more.

Current Work and Project: I'm currently doing Benevolat in a Library(Drummondville) and a OSBL(Ensoleil Levant in Drummondville) when i got time. My time is precious and i participate in every charity cause that deserve it. I make my research before giving money to them. I don't like money much i'd rather have a smile back than dollars.

Friends of mine got a music studio at home so we slowly building a free mixtape to give to people who need it the most. I believe music is the best Therapy to loneliness and depression. You can easily understand the suffering with words.

I participate in Anonymous Montreal #OPSafe Winter every year. I donate around 300$ per week to homeless in exchange of a hug. People who need something know where i do live and my door will always be open to them if they have reconnaissance.(French) Sadly i can't travel around the world as i need to be in Drummondville because my Family lives in here.

That was just my personal experience. Hope Love Faith.

Thanks for taking the time to review my application i appreciate it. Respect Love - RL 4 Ever Julie Espérance. ?

How can you contribute to the group?

I have a lot of entrepreneurial experience, and have a lot of experience running businesses IRL, as well as online. I am also a Computer Science: Cyber Security Major, so I have a lot of coding and pentesting experience. I have learned a lot over the years, and can help a lot of the other members with any of their issues that pertain to my knowledge. Im sure many of the members that will be accepted may have this knowledge already, but I could also collaborate with the other members on projects as well.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Red Lions has always been a mythical group to me. I always respected the members of Red Lions, and have always wanted to be a part of Red Lions myself. Red Lions has always kinda been the upstanding citizens of HFin my eyes, always looking to make the community a better place. Whether it be by providing HQ contributions to the community, or just weeding out the spam, and rule breaking out of the forums.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I can put around 45 hours a week towards group functions and activities a week. I am a very social person, and would love to help out or participate in any activities that the group has going on.

Personal Application:

Why do you think you belong in Red Lion?

I have been around HackForums for a very long time and have grown along side of the community, and its members. I have made many business relationships and Friendships in this community. This seems like a step up to a Higher tier of existence within the HackForums Community, and I'm excited to even be considered. I hope that I can continue to grow within the group along side my Friends, and many others that I respect.

Have you been in any other groups prior?

I have participated in quite a few groups in my lifetime. I have been in:

Illuminati

Revolution

Skill
Nightmare

I participated a ton in these groups, and I would love to have the chance to participate a ton in Red Lions.

What contributions have you made to HF? 1000+ posts

607 Hours of online time

Member since 2014

Advice given on a variety of topics across the forums.

[\[Revolution\] Monthly Member Upgrade Contest](#)

I have also contributed quite a bit to previous groups I have been in. I have helped with activities, projects, and other things.

I have gained 250+ rep without farming for any of it. (only 1 negative from a banned scammer)

Thank you for taking the time to read my applications!

[BLANK] - January 19, 2018, 11:46 am

How can you contribute to the group?

As an active user and active white hat I will contribute by investigating spam claims, testing vouch copies and make sure that the claims received are valid. I will assist users who are honestly in need of help, and assist with blocking/negative reping any user that is only trying to scam or be a pest.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

While I am not as familiar with how Red Lion used to operate, I have heard that Red Lion has a good reputation for honestly trying to assist HF be a great place for honest security enthusiasts.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

At least a couple hours a week, sometimes more. I have an active life but I am always happy to contribute my time to make HF a better place.

Personal Application:

I am a professional penetration tester with both practical and academic experience in information security. I have always been a white hat type of security enthusiasts and I strive to improve the infosec community as a whole. I enjoy learning every day and am constantly taking new certs, new classes, and learning new tools while on the job. I am OSCP as well as other certs. Overall I believe I can contribute to any group and would like a chance to prove that I can be an active and contributing member for Red Lion. My Negative Rep is due to writing an article about performing a legal phishing campaign and how to prep for it etc, I was not aware that talking about a legal professional activity would be considered wrong. The neg rep will be removed in a couple of weeks. I believe my threads and posts prove the kind of contributor I will be.

Durham - January 19, 2018, 1:18 pm

Finally you are doing it again, but this time I cannot apply to busy with real life. :(

That's sad, because I always wanted to be a part of Red Lions ever since I joined HackForums.

Good luck to everyone who is applying.

How can you contribute to the group? Activity, Contribute Useful stuff to the people in the group, I'm also really active on HF.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? I've always wanted to join Red Lion, I've been seeing this group for a while, and it looks like nice people are in the group, and I love being with and talking with nice people.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? I'll be able to post comments everyday, and some threads every week.

Personal Application:

Thanks for doing this possible, If you have any other question about me or related to anything, just PM me :)

Hope to get an answer soon! :)

I am active at almost all times of the day. My skills lie in Video Editing, which means that if a time arises where you guys need a video edited I am the one to call. I am also stepping into Graphic Design hoping to use it in my videos.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Red Lion is like a family. They help each other in any way possible. They are not afraid of anything because they are always together like a family. They are strong and clever and more so then anyone else.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

Saturday-Sunday 2-3 Hours

Monday,Wednesday,Friday- 4-5 Hours

Tuesday & Thursday 6-7 Hours

Personal Application

Not much here but this is like one of the groups I see so far that are actually devoted.

Raz Riverblade - January 19, 2018, 3:30 pm

How can you contribute to the group?

My field of expertise is in the economic area. After finishing three degrees I have become quite knowledgeable in the fields of Insurance, Immobiliën, Banking, loans, the stock market and management of small to middle-large companies. Currently I'm finishing my fourth and last degree, if all went well I'll graduate on February 7th.

With this last degree I'll be officially allowed to sell insurance and banking products, negotiate between insurer and customer, etc. It's my professional goal to combine the pure economic side of things with humanitarian side, putting me in a position that allows me to help those suffering from bad tidings by getting them the loans they need or securing their insurance claims.

I will not become the money hungry banker even though it's well within my abilities.

I'm willing and wanting to extend my help, expertise and knowledge on these subjects through various efforts to all who need it on hackforums.

To pass on my ethics and my knowledge would be my main contribution to the group.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

In my eyes Red Lions have always resembled the untainted. The one group that doesn't get sold over and over again, the last pillar of the Old hf that I have joined, the last community where people actually know each other. But most of all it's the group that you can trust. The only group that you can trust as all others will be gone in a few months.

In short, Red Lions is what a group should be.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

As I've mentioned before I will graduate in a couple of weeks, I've already got a position at an insurance company waiting for me which guarantees some very agreeable work hours, allowing me atleast 4 hours time every night that's yet to be scheduled in. I should be available daily without any problems.

Personal Application:

I believe most has been said in the first question, but let me tell you the story that sparked the 'unusual' ethic of mine.

I was a fresh Highschool graduate, after 2 years of Economy and sciences I was on the lookout to see which study would rake in the most money.

Around that time every year different faculties show off their courses and try to attract new students.

Among the students walking around talking with the different professors was young Raz. With promises of great contract, business trips, headhunting and fat paychecks I left the Marketing course. With dollar signs in the eyes I decided I had found my calling.

I had almost left the building when I spotted a clock telling me I had just missed my train and would have to wait for another hour. (the campus was just behind the train station)

I decided to walk around a bit instead of sitting on a bench waiting for the train to come.

So said, so done, I browsed folders of other courses with very little interest and walked around looking at the other booths, convinced nothing of any value was to be found in there.

About a quarter-hour into this I noticed a more elderly man sitting at a table with nothing but a small sign that said: "Finances and insurances"

I decided to listen to what the man had to say. He gave me a classic introductory speech, nothing special, no "wow" factor at all, but the conversation that followed changed my life.

"Son" he said "Do you know why there will always be work for a good insurance broker? Even in these times of internet and automation?"

"Because people will always need insurances?" I answered, still thinking back to the promises made at the Marketing booth.

"No, Because the people that come to us, that call us at night in tears because something terribly happened, those that call us away from parties and friends because their house burned down or their partner died..." he looked into my eyes, making me feel like the Lord himself was judging me for my greed "... those people need your help, and we will always be there to help them, and support them and no machine can replace this function."

At that point my eyes opened, and I decided to shove my greed aside and become the Insurance broker people can count on and trust. It would and will be my way to do good in the world.

How can you contribute to the group?

I firmly believe that the most important thing to have for any forum group is dedicated members. If one is dedicated to the group and its purpose things like activity and positive contributions to or in name of the group won't be an issue.

What I can offer Red Lions is simple, but it's also what you need! I can offer my full dedication to the group. This of course includes me being active in and for the Red Lions in one way or another. Other then just being active and representing the group towards the community in a positive manner I can also work with any group projects you might have.

I have extensive knowledge of Hack Forums and the policies that come with it. I'm always trying to make this forum and the community a better place and it would be great to do this in name of the actual Red Lions group!

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Red Lions is known on this forum for its helpful members and group contributions.

Time and time again you guys have proven that the Red Lions group is the best group on the forums because of the standards, purpose and all round positive influence in this forums community.

I've been on this forum for over 4 years now and even though I changed a lot in that time Red Lions has stayed the same.

No matter how many groups got re branded or changed their focus on something else, Red Lions has always been there as a helpful and positive part of the community.

It took me a long time but I believe I would be ready to join the Red Lions if you guys would have me as I would be able to represent the group in a professional and positive manner.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I'm on Hack Forums every day and my free time is mostly in the evening/at night. I am confident that I can devote as much time as needed to the group.

Personal Application

Who are you?

Hi, my name is Alex but I'm known on this forum as Vitani. Now I know what you might be thinking. Aren't you that guy with 80k posts on this forum? That's not me, I'm just Vitani. I'm an everyday guy who spends most of his free time on his PC, talking to people on this forum. You might know me from a community project I've done in the past year or maybe a guide thread I made on this forum. If you don't know me feel free to send me a PM, I'd love to meet you!

What should we know about you?

I'm a driven person. I'm anything but lazy and I always strive to do things the most effective way possible. I'm loyal and if I believe in something I won't let it go easily.

I love this forum and the community that comes with it and I've been interested in joining the Red Lions group for a long time now. I'd love to be part of the group as it worked and still works to making Hack Forums a better place every day.

So what are you upto in life?

I'm in university doing an IT related study. Outside of that I like hanging out with friends regularly, browsing the internet and checking out this forum every day. Aside from all of that I enjoy drinking some quality beer now and then.

What exactly have you done for this forum?

Over the past few years I have contributed a variety of things ranging from helpful posts to actual quality content for this forum.

Contributions so far: Made 3 different 101 guides that explain the basics of networking, Python and virtual machines.

Made a denied suggestions compilation thread (with help from adam) which got a sticky man award.

Released several freeware tools made or improved by me.

Made some user scripts to improve forum experience for users.

Released the first ever app dedicated to HF called HF PM Notifications.

Released the HF PM Notifications browser plugin for chrome and firefox.

Acted as middleman for over 100 deals on this forum.

Made several smaller threads either with the purpose of explaining something or just entertaining users.

Trying to be helpful every day.

Why should we want you in the group?

I can't claim to be better than all the other applicants because a lot of them have qualities that I can't offer. What I can guarantee you is that I'll be helpful within the group and that I also have my skill set which could come in useful for the group. I'm a loyal member and if you would give me the opportunity to join and show you what I can do in and for the group I would definitely be able to show you I'm dedicated to the group and its purpose.

Anything more to say?

I hope you guys consider adding me to the group. I'd love to get the opportunity to show you what I can do!

How can you contribute to the group?

I am currently studying and developing Javascript aswell as C++. I currently have the knowledge of HTML, CSS, and Basic Javascript well enough for developing websites. I plan on moving over to mobile development by the end of the year, once i feel really comfortable with all the knowledge I am currently being well spent.

I also have 1-2 years of Graphic Design skill that has helped me for many times while being on this forum. Knowledge in Adobe Photoshop, Adobe After Effect, (Beginner) Adobe Illustrator & Sketch.

I have been a Marketing Aspect for 2 years on the forum and I am currently in the process of bring out projects to the Marketplace that has not been seen before. Time is money and I am not in a rush.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Red Lion name to means to me is "Respect". I've always lookup at the people who were in the group, they never put themselves in a position that made the group look bad in anyway ever since i joined the forum. I see the group as people who don't just look at HF as a place to just make a quick buck and leave. They are respected and hold themselves to that title. Sincere thought I have about this group.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I am literally on everyday, throughout the day because I carry my Laptop with me everywhere and thats also where I have my assignment done.

I also own a Graphic Service on the forum so I am online all the time. I'll say about 55-65 Hours a week.

Personal Application:

I am currently a Student in College, Recently been accepted as a Google aspect Web Development internship this January (can provide proof if requested.)

I am currently an Employee at Apple Repair Center, finished 3 months of training last month.

Have knowledge in IOS & OSX Repairs and Software Data Support.

I have knowledge in C++, HTML, CSS and basic Javascript.

Currently have knowledge with WordPress and php.

Own a Graphic Free Request Service for 3 years. (Found in thread.)

I feel I would be a great contribution to the group and hold myself accountable to making sure I set the expectation to not only but myself and the people around me.

Who Soup - January 20, 2018, 5:12 pm

How can you contribute to the group? I can offer any business knowledge from an array of subjects my specialty being investments and real estate as I am a licensed real estate agent and own a holdings/investment company as well as went to college studying business.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? Red lions to me has been synonymous with quality especially regarding groups.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? I would be able to offer around 20 hours a week (give or take 3hrs a day) to group activities.

Personal Application:

I'm a simple person so I'd like to keep my application simple. I'd like to use this space to say even if I am not accepted I really appreciate what the red lions do and how they have continued to maintain their quality and contribute to Hackforums in a positive way though out the years.

thanks ?

AsSaSs@iN - January 20, 2018, 7:39 pm

How can you contribute to the group?

I continue to contribute to the forums on a daily basis providing quality help and tutoring on the public and private forums. As an established member on the forums, I understand the necessity of appropriate conduct to reflect a groups image. I have and continue to portray myself in a professional, moral and mature manner in which would only enhance the image of the Red Lions. I stand for what is moral and what is right in terms of the forums and the wider community. I am passionate about Hack Forums and wish to continue this passion simultaneously with the Red Lions and Security banner.

I am able to offer a sister/brother relationship with the Security group. A group that shares similar goals and values to that of Red Lions in a more specific niche area. I believe the two teams uniting will result in only positive things for the forums, both groups and the respective members.

I will continue my work - helping members for free and producing tutorials of the highest quality under the Red Lions banner to continue to enhance the image of this group - tutorials I am committed to attributing the Red Lions branding on my already stickied threads including my comprehensive thread on tooth whitening (stickied) and my thread on effective studying (stickied) in education nation [subject to group approval]. I intend on broadening my catalogue of tutorials in which I am equally committed to displaying the Red Lions branding to spread the groups image.

I hope to work on and propose group projects with the members of Red Lions as I believe we will be able to achieve great things than if I were to embark on all my intended ventures alone.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Red Lions is and continues to be one of the most well respected, established groups on HackForums. It's fantastic to see the group continuing to not only exist but also thrive. Being able to associate myself with the members of the Red Lions will only enhance my contributions and content given to the forums. It would mean working with a group of like-minded, passionate individuals in the endeavour to continuously impact the forums in a positive manner.

Surrounding yourself with a community of people who are dedicated to producing quality content and conducting themselves with integrity is essential if this is the personal image in which you hope to uphold. By engrossing yourself with members like this it only has a positive impact in the way one carries themselves throughout the forums.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

>5hrs.

Personal Application: I'm honoured to have the opportunity to apply to the Red Lions. I believe my continued dedication and passion to the forums is evidence enough of my suitability and dedication to the group (and the wider forums). I look forward to continuing to contribute to Hack Forums in a positive manner, hopefully, under the Red Lions name. Thanks for your time.

How can you contribute to the group?

Eyes and Ears, although it dont seem like much but i spend a Great deal of time on this forum just reading and seeing countless spam and trolling for no reason and i feel with a group eyes and ear become a mouth and can put a stop to this, i also find myself getting stuck reading the countless get rich quick scam and closed accounts because of this and i would like to help make HF a place of learning advice and safe communications between people who have and people who want.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Honestly? its just name but reading what its about means more, i dont really see this being a group like a "team" "Gang" or "Group" but more of a fraternity being surrounded by people with same aim, maturity and Goal.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

i Work a 4 on and 4 off which works great to stay social on both sides of the north Atlantic and i can commit to around 30-40 hours per week give or take my work and home life revolves around My computer so this would be another enjoyable task for me

Evanescence - January 21, 2018, 7:26 am

How can you contribute to the group?

As the group is about maintaining the forum policies and enforcing them by reporting to the staff of HF. My dream is to be a staff member of HF(at least mentor).

I've tried hard to get into it, but there's some unique recruitment procedure that only Omni knows. On the whole my aim is to keep HF policies enacted and enforced as much as possible and keep trolls out of the way. You can check my reports. Most of them have received warning(personally have monitored after reporting ?)

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

By the name it looks very grand. The leader has got a separate award for himself alone. The team is also grand I believe.

I sell verification service here and have encountered 2 or 3 users(including OP). They are really very high quality in themselves. Since my aim and the objective of Red Lions meet, I would like to give it a shot to be in the grand group of HF.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

Disregarding time for my higher studies, I spend around an hour or two right now(this may increase in future). So I can dedicate around 10 hours to be minimum.

Personal Application:

Since I wanted to be a staff member and still do. Till then let me sharpen my axe.

Elitas - January 21, 2018, 9:08 am

How can you contribute to the group? I am an extremely active and knowledgeable (I hope) member. I can offer my intellect and time. I care about Hack Forums and the quality of the forum as it is my most visited website every day. I would love to join the group to help improve my activity on the forum by giving me more of a reason to log on each day. I can assist members within the group on a variety of topics (mostly technology based) and use my grammar skills to both proof-read and craft good quality guides/tutorials which will be easy to read & understand for anyone and everyone.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? Ever since joining the forum I was always aware of the Red Lions usergroup. The members contributed some very useful information which I enjoyed as a new member. The group stood out due to the respect which other members had for the group and the quality of the members who were in it. I know as well as anyone else on this forum that it takes a certain quality from a member to be accepted into Red Lions.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

It depends on the given week but I can typically invest anywhere from 15-20 hours a week plus all day (usually) on weekends into Hack Forums as a whole, and during such time I will be available for consultation and contributions with regards to Red Lions. This is not saying I can spend a full 15 hours a week working on a Red Lions project, but it is saying that I will be online and ready to reply to any messages for 2-4 hours per day (plus usually all day on weekends). During which time I can perform any duties necessary.

Personal Application: I'm not going to reveal anything personal here. Just want to let you know that I am extremely interested in programming, hacking and general IT. I spend most of my days either working on, completing or looking for projects. I currently have a large number of projects I am working on but still have some spare time as a lot of them are completed now and require minor maintenance which is what I find myself spending most of my time on and that isn't very interesting. I'm looking for challenging work, looking to meet new people & make new contacts and also find more of a reason to spend time on Hack Forums talking about productive stuff. I'm not a zombie though, I do enjoy TV programs, current affairs and some very peculiar genres of music. Thank you very much to whoever has read my application to this point, wishing the best of luck to all applicants and regardless of my application's status, it will be exciting to see a new round of Red Lions members who are active & ready to contribute more quality content to Hack Forums. ?

Quick - January 21, 2018, 9:42 am

How can you contribute to the group?

Well, my main assets are gfx, coding, and social media marketing, so I'll make sure to help out any member who is in need in these fields, I just finished my finals and so I've got plenty of time to devote for the group, and the fact that the group is based on "people who report scamming etc" means that the group will be filled with high quality members who deserve each and every single minute that I'll spend helping them out, as in fact they are devoted to the community and they are fighting scammers. In addition I've personally faced some scam attempts (check my threads) and I've developed a sort of a motivating hate against these people who think they're smarter than everyone else and try to steal from you at any chance, which made me go really deep in the rules in order to fight them back, and I recently got a scammer banned, by monitoring him and as soon as he committed a reputation violation I reported it and got him banned.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

For me a lion has always been a symbol, a sort of an idol, a feroce animal that fights for his territory, red is equivalent to blood, sacrifice, and the combination of these two words insinuates a person who sacrifices his time to help the community and protect his rights in any way possible, for example fighting back scammers.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

As I previously stated, I just finished my finals and I've got a 2 months holiday from now on, which means I've got even more time than usual and I'll be gladly investing it in the group and in HF generally,(I'd say around 2-3+ hours per day).

Personal Application:

I can't really develop my ideas even more, as I've said almost everything in the previous sections, otherwise I would like to add that this group will motivate me even more to fight back scammers and contribute to a sort of a higher quality community (the members of the group) and in exchange receive some sort of a new high quality knowledge, help from these members too. Finally I would like to wish the rest of the applicants the best of luck.

How can you contribute to the group?

I understand site policy very well as I was a Mentor since 2014. Therefore, I can share my knowledge and reasoning in matters regarding site policy. I am quite active and always here to help. I carry my self with professionalism and sensibility.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Red Lions, to me has been a prestigious group for as long as I can remember. I always wished one day I could be a part of it. Some of the most HQ contributors to the forum reside within.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I would say 10 hours a week, no problem.

Personal Application

Hack Forums has a very dear place in life, I love seeing members interact, learn and create as it reminds me of myself growing up on here, which I very much did. I made life long, real friends from this forum and I encourage you to build your connections, respect each other and help each other.

I really feel like a teacher now, watching students (members) graduate, move on with their lives and a whole new eager generation of members coming in each year. I now focus on ensuring members have a safe environment to have the same experiences and opportunities I have been blessed with having.

How can you contribute to the group? I am able to help fund group events, contests, and giveaways. I have written several tutorials on financial and technological aspects of cryptocurrency, while providing help in many different ways to all users. I have an open door policy, so any member can come to me with questions.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? Red Lions has continued to be the highest of quality among all past and present groups. Back in 2011 Red Lions was doing an immense amount of work to help the Forums, but I do think the name faded over the years.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? I can devote several hours a day, but I am currently active duty in the United States Marine Corps and on a month long training exercise. I am also deploying to the Middle East soon but should be able to commit time while deployed.

Personal Application:

In all honesty, my only strength in Hack Forums is my knowledge in finance such as stocks, mutual funds, retirement accounts, and most things cryptocurrency. In my personal life, I help as many Marines around me as I can with their finances as most are reckless with their money. Just by helping them and people online for the past 7 years, I have obtained a wealth of knowledge and am able to answer most questions or direct them to someone or some place it can be answered. Not many groups these days are something I can relate to, so I deny invitations and choose to not apply; however, Red Lions has always been a group that has always strived to be the better good of Hack Forums and that has been a long-term goal of mine.

I really don't like that way of recruitment but when someone owns their own group they can do whatever they want with it. In RL we don't do things behind the back of the public or other members and want everyone from the group and outside the group to see other applications. Which is why if you get accepted we ask that you don't remove your application from the thread. RL is supposed to be a group where you represent your best and everyone should be able to see that.

DenizZ - January 22, 2018, 7:15 pm

How can you contribute to the group?

I will mostly contribute by being active. I've been in many groups during my short time here on HF, sadly none of them lasted long and I lost thousands of posts. The Red Lions is the only group that I know will last long and that will make me stay active. Most members know about Nokia2mon's donations/contests and I will try to do the same. I have upgraded and bought awards for quite a lot of members, which I will tell more about in my personal application. I will actively participate in any group projects like contest, tutorials etc.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Prestige. Most groups don't last very long while Red Lions has never been re-branded and is been around for years. Being a member of the Red Lions gives a member a prestigious status, becoming a member of the Red Lions is an accomplishment. Something I wouldn't say easily for most of the other groups.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I've been a member of Hack Forums since 04-20-2017 and I have already spent more than one month at Hack Forums. I've been active in pretty much all of the groups I've been in, but sadly all the posts I had in subforums of groups are gone. I've spent a lot of time in groups with some Red Lion members as well, such as Regulus and Soulmate. I can easily spend 10+ hours per week towards group activities.

Personal Application

I would like to tell a little bit about myself in my personal application and tell u what I've contributed to Hack Forums so far. I'm an history teacher at a high school, father of 2 sons while being only 25 years old. My english isn't perfect but I think it's not bad though. I'm relax and easy to get along with.

If my word counts, I want to say that If you should choose anyone, it should be Ghost.13 . He's knows his stuff with node and other languages. He makes great tutorials, has extreme character that is hard to find in people, he listens, he is understanding, very inspiring, innovative, and an entrepreneur at heart . (Jan 17, 2018 08:55 PM)Ghost.13 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How can you contribute to the group?

I'm a web and mobile applications developer under the NodeJS platform for almost 4 years now. I can contribute to the group by making coding, technical, and professional tutorials. I can also lend a hand to group projects or individual ventures any member may have.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Honor. As one of the longest running user group in HF, being a member of Red Lion is an honorable position to be in this forum. It also means loyalty and passion because of the same principle.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I can do around 20 hours per week on group activities.

Personal Application:

As a long time member of the forum, I really look forward to join this prestigious user group because I want to know if, after all these years just being a regular contributor of this forum, I can do better and learn more by joining the ranks of the elders of this community. The actual pioneers of this forum, so to say. Red Lions did not survive for so long without the efforts of its members, and I wanted to know what it actually takes for that to happen so that I can also further contribute to other user groups that I'm a member of and the whole community in general.

Thanks for this opportunity. Good luck to all participants.

Anyone who is thinking about applying, please do. There is no harm in applying, and we do sincerely look beyond the stereotypical aspects of a user's profile that assume high quality. We look far beyond one's rep and purchased awards, and if anything, they mean very little.

If anyone has any reluctance, hesitancy, or questions about applying, do not hesitate to PM either me or Lrrr. We are available to answer anyone's concerns. Cheers.

Honestly, the ONLY thing that sets us apart from all the other "improve hf" groups is that on Thursdays we all take turns cleaning the Ark of the Covenant with toothbrushes. You guys thought it was lost, nah, Red Lions just hold it down like that.

We don't ask for anybody's respect. If you want to join the group here is where you can apply but if not we aren't forcing anybody or claiming it's the best thing to happen to HF. What's different is that every "improve hf" group has been sold by now and RL is still standing.

?Maximus' Application for

How can you contribute to the group?

Anything related to marketing, crypto currency and business management/development, I am your guy. I've been in the crypto game for almost 4 years, and have been active in building all kinds of businesses for nearly 8, in result of this I have built a very large marketing library and can easily help out getting businesses "out there" to the world. Crypto Currency is my forte though, I have been very actively involved in many crypto communities and, as you can tell by my most-posted-boards, crypto currency is 80% of my posts here on HF.

Elaborating on the above, I'm very good with one on one coaching on all crypto topics and can assist not only the group but the wider community with whatever questions they have. Again proven by my posts in the crypto section, as I already to so to the best of my ability when I'm online :)

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

Simply put, Red Lions in my eyes is the unarguably the most respected group on HF. Being a Red Lion shows you are someone who is notable, but at the same time caring and proven to be a friendly and supportive HF member. It also means generosity towards everyone, not just the group, as nokia2mon has displayed with his extremely generous donations toward HF and the community.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

As much as required. I am online often, and do have spare time that I can devote to a group like Red Lions. I don't really bother with other HF groups here, but Red Lions would be the group I would be very much inclined to participate as much as possible.

This application is short and sweet. I am not here to post how many tuts I have made, or brag about my reputation, time here or awards. My profile very much does speak for itself, I would be honored

Thank you!

(Jan 27, 2018 03:59 AM)Genuine Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I miss this group. Nearly 800 posts in the subforum. Getting there as well.

Technically Red Lions was not purchased. nokia2mon2 made several large donations to the site in 2011 and Omniscient surprised him with a custom group. This was BEFORE groups were purchasable. Shortly after Red Lions was added paid groups began.

Exactly. I'd say kudos to you for knowing the history, but you've been around for a minute, so makes sense.

Good luck to everyone that applies.

How can you contribute?

I'm a passionate programmer, in my third year of a Computer Science degree, and the vast majority of my posts are helping others with programming issues. In addition to .NET and web technologies, I also develop for iOS, haven't seen many others on the forum. I've prototyped a mobile HF client. Just waiting for write permissions being made available on the API.

I'm a big believer in open source and love to help, you can find some work on my GitHub as well as my threads. Alongside programming, I have plenty of experience in graphic and interface design which I will gladly demonstrate privately. Confident using Photoshop, Sketch and After Effects.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?

I've been here a long time and the name has always been constant. It's an established name - like its members - and I'm looking for a group where I know I my efforts and participation won't be wasted in the end.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?

I'm almost always available and as of last year, browse HF daily, so I'm confident I can devote as much time as needed.

Personal Application

I hope the body of my application doesn't appear lazy, especially with my relatively small profile, I just try to write as concisely as possible. For proof of my work, I have apps available on the App Store which I'm happy to show.

P.S. Love the new banner, hope you don't mind the tweaks. :)

How can you contribute to the group?:

I can give a lot of my free time (depending on my work schedule, that could vary) toward the group to help with giveaways, tutorials, run a mental health help desk in the groups name, or anything else that you could possibly need help with (even if I'm not that great at whatever it could be, I'm always willing to give it a shot, or learn). Giveaway wise, I could donate some money, accounts, etc.. Tutorials, I could write a few tutorials, or help other red lions member' that need help with theirs. I'm sure there's a lot of stuff I can contribute to the group, just ask me and I'm sure I can figure something out, even if it's something that I'm not 100% familiar with. I'm willing to pretty much do anything to help / contribute.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you?:

I mean its on of the longest running groups, and one of the most exclusive. But the name itself makes me think that the group has a massive heart. I mean Nokia2mon2 is probably has one of the biggest hearts on HF. If it wasn't for him and the group years ago, the servers that Hack Forums was running on wouldn't have been upgraded for a while. So when I think of Red Lion's I usually think Exclusive, kind members, helpful members, a really rich man (lol, everyone thinks that, don't believe people if they say they don't). I like what the group does honestly, even if its just nokia2mon2 coming by to donate a large sum of money to the forum (That goes a long way, because it helps pay for the servers, hosting and all that kind of stuff, which keeps the forum up and running). But the Red lions mean quite a bit to me. I could go on, but I don't want to bore anyone!

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week?:

As it sits right now, I can probably devote more that 20 hours a week, and that'll be till around march-april area (when work season starts again), then it'll probably be about 20 hours a week maximum (Through the work days, the weekends i can do a whole day if needed hahah). If I was to give a per day number, right now I can do about 8, and when the work season starts back up, around 4-5 a day. So I'm sure my time I can devote to the group would be more than sufficient.

Personal Application:

Name: Jimmy.

Age: I am 22 years old.

Time Zone: Eastern Standard Time (-4:00)

Country: I currently reside in Canada.

A little about myself: Well let's start this part. I'm Jimmy, I'm 22 almost 23, I currently reside in Canada. I have a few mental health issues, they are pretty well known, but for the members / people who don't know. I suffer from Bi-Polar Disorder (also know as manic depression), Mild Schizophrenia, and Social Anxiety. I'm not going to lie, sometimes I come across or come off as a cunt, but I'm really not. I'm not entirely serious when I'm posting around. I might seem like a troll or something in group SF's but I only really mess around with my friends. I'm a pretty nice person, unless I dislike you (it takes quite a bit for me to dislike someone). In my spare time I like to do shit like; Snowboard, skateboard, play video games (But who doesn't like to play those), Browse Hack Forums, Smoke my cigarettes (Not the smartest thing), drink (occasionally), help out with the Hack Forums News, Help with the Hack Forums Wiki, and a lot more. I honestly don't really know what else to add, I mean if you want to know anything more, you're more than welcome to send me a private message and ask me, I'm pretty open and honest.

How can you contribute to the group?

I know a bunch about a lot of different subjects. My main focus in life however is music and my main focus on this site is bringing activity back in the music section. I spend most my time on this site giving feedback and contributing to the music section. It might not seem like a big deal but it's always good to have a wide presence.

How can you contribute to the group? As a member of Hack Forums, I do my best to help those in the marketplace. I have done over 100 deals on this forum, good and bad. I currently run a middleman service where I have conducted over hundreds of successful deals. I believe that working together we can all help make Hack Forums' marketplace great. With teamwork and a good member base who are willing to help (Red Lions), I am sure that we can work together to rid of scammers, make deals go smooth and successful, and allow members to feel at ease when doing a deal. Of course, this won't always be successful. However, several members of Red Lions have tried to help better the marketplace a better place and I definitely feel like I can help with that.

Recently I have been appointed mentor by Omniscent. I am more than grateful for that, and because of this, I was given the powers to stop members from posting LQ threads and posts, move threads to the right forum, and much more to make Hack Forums a place that everyone can enjoy. I can contribute to Red Lions by my presence as a mentor. Now, this isn't a way to brag about the role that I have been given. To go into further detail, as a mentor my job, as said before, is to enforce rules and assist staff when possible. Helping preserve the image of the Red Lions, I can post positively and swiftly to help any member in need while being mature and responsible.

I have knowledge of ratting and botnets. Although I personally don't do this type of things anymore, I can help assist members in the beginner hacking section looking to learn more about how to rat and use botnets. Originally when I first signed up on the forum, I had taken interest in learning these skills. Over time, I believe I learned a good amount of knowledge to get me going. Now, I would like to give back to the community and joining Red Lions will definitely give me the motivation to get that going.

What does the Red Lion name mean to you? I will be blunt and honest. I don't really believe in the word "high quality" despite having said it before. Everyone is good at something. I believe that you are skilled in a field and have done actions on the forum to prove you know them, I will respect that. Where this is going is that members of this group have done that. Members who have applied to this group and were accepted, have shown their skills on the forum and for that, I respect them and Red Lions.

How much time can you devote towards group activities per week? I am able to be on Hack Forums a majority of the day.

Personal Application I'm very thankful for this opportunity.
