Thread: Paypal locked. Asking to verify phone or upload ID:\(\(

hckhrt - January 18, 2018, 6:36 pm

When today I opened my ewhoring PayPal to make a payment, it asked for quick security check before processing payment but I didn't have access to that number anymore so updated my number and tried again but this time it didn't show up the new phone number and asked to add a new number but throws back an error "This number isn't registered with your name" when I enter a new number. I cleaned browser's cache and cookies and when tried to log in again, it temporary limited my account and asked to either verify the phone or upload ID. When i try to verify the phone, I don't my number over there and get the same error "number not registered with your name" when I try to add a new number. So am I fucked up or is there still a a chance to regain access and make the payment? I got around $100 on it:(

Sorry if this isn't the right section for such discussions.

Probably fucked for 180 days then it can be put into a bank account as long as it isn't linked to another PP. That's to the best of my knowledge but PP might have changed limit policies within the last 2-3 years.

This is blackhat but paypal dose not have an ID checking service, as long as you are a pro in PS then you're golden. However i do not know about US accounts.
