???? - January 25, 2018, 6:15 pm

Sold Maxim and Marwix a project for $1,050. He never paid me ANYTHING for it. It's been around 90 days now. It seems that he's self banned himself after I finally told him I was going to make the deal dispute.

Discord proof -

Will see if he wants to try to get away with this rather than fulfilling his end of the deal and I'll add more info.

What do you mean by project?

C#? VB? etc.

Website?

Is this a common thing on this site? Like big users scamming, self banning, then coming back pretending nothing happened?

Marwix - January 26, 2018, 2:16 am

I am the developer of jLog and can tell you that we did everything we could to bring back the project entirely.

Me and Maxim are both partners and work together on this project. In other words, I am also to blame which you should include but we are both responsible for the amount. So maxim doesn't owe you $1050, instead he owes you $575 and I owe you the same amount which adds up to a total of $1050.

We bought a domain, different hosts (since most didn't work) and providing promotion - Everything to make jLog #1 product for customers. We spent so much money and didn't earn enough to pay for the website and for you. Besides, we had a bunch of issues with the server and the product overall. These problems was never an issue back in the days when we sold jLog ourselves so I am not entirely sure why it became such a big issue now.

Scorpion, you should know that there was a point where we had all the money for you but you were never online so we didn't know what to do. We waited for weeks but you never came online so you should also blame yourself for being stupid and offline on all platforms.

Regarding Maxim's ban,

It has nothing to do with him running away or that. Maxim will be posting on my behalf later when he's back from his week vacation ban that he took 5 days ago. For those who think a huge member like Maxim would scam someone, you guys are all wrong. We both know each other in real life and he wouldn't risk his reputation nor account on HF for something as little as a deal dispute like this one.

Wespa - January 26, 2018, 2:26 am

Maxim seems like a nice dude, I doubt that he'd do something like this.

I hope this will get solved , i am sure that since maxim got into a deal he would not break it. (Maybe i am wrong)

The first thing comes on my head about this deal dispute is that sales went not good , had not money to pay you and don't forgot the issues about bitcoin network this months.
Anyway i am sure that if maxim don't pay you for any reason , you can claim your rights back of that product.

The only thing we want at the moment is for scorpion to take back his product since it didn't go well with sales and website.

We attempted to bring the project back up so scorpion could get his money, much more than he would earn by selling jLog by himself - Which obvsly failed because of numerous reasons.

Trusted enough to want to try someones program out without any risk to himself, to then hand it back after he fails at it without re-numeration? Doesn't sound very trustworthy when an agreed price was set.

Hope you get the agreed deal fella.

M?xim - January 27, 2018, 11:21 am

First things for, am not admitting to anything nor denying. Just leaving one post. That's all.

Let me explain the deal. Scorpion sold his keylogger to Marwix and I in return of us paying him with profits. The keylogger that Scorpion sold us is the "Java Keylogger" also quite known as "jLog".

First off, Marwix and I took this deal together. His part was 50% which is $575. So, the title was wrongly until now when you changed it. You only putting me in the title is wrong, maybe it'll gain you more clicks on the thread but whatever. But now all the first posts are about "Big member using rep to scam blab la bla". And am not throwing him under the bus, he's willing to admit this part himself. I thank him for that. And, it is even Marwix who is hosting the thread here:

[\[INSTANT DOWNLOAD\] // > JAVA KEYLOGGER < // WEBPANEL // WINDOWS // MAC OS X // LINUX](#)

Secondly, why are you saying that I took a vacation ban after you mentioned that you will be posting a 'scam' report? You said here on 2018-01-25 that you will be posting the deal dispute. When in fact, I took a week-long vacation ban on 2018-01-20

I don't appreciate when people are trying to make a deal dispute and have to twist things to make it extra spicy. Now people are thinking that I vac-banned when you said that you will be posting the deal dispute. Not fair.

Lastly, you have understood the deal wrongly it seems. The deal was that we will be paying you using profits (your words). We assumed it would take 40 days, it didn't. So, it has been stalled ever since because the web panels have not been working. Payments have been manually handled and what not. Reasons aside, the deal is not as you've explained it. You never explained what would happen if, using profits, we would not be able to pay you within the deadline.

Oh and, kind of unrelated, but still. I tried to resolve it. I presented a solution to you, you never replied, and posted the deal dispute. All it would have taken was a few days for me to attempt to sell the project to someone who knows PHP. I could have easily got $1050 for this project. You should have taken that.

To be honest, a deal dispute does not scare me, I do not feel any obligations to the forum. I separate my personal life and my online. However, it does not mean that I don't give a rat crap about your deal dispute, I will try to resolve this with the help of Marwix. Do you want the truth? You are the owner of Java Keylogger which has been operated under us, working for you. You're afraid of admitting that it seems looking at this thread. If you are going to post a deal dispute, explain to people what it is about so that I don't have to do your part for you. Don't call it a project, call it as it is. A keylogger, be specific which one, link the sales thread.

Now. We can't pay you with profits (which was the deal) – and also, not sure why Marwix said that we had all the money because we didn't. We had $500 which went to JUNK hosting services that are being offered in the marketplace section and advertisement for the thread when you never went online.

However, I can still offer to sell the keylogger for you in an auction to someone who knows PHP. I've done it before, I can do it again. Or i will come up with something else.

Edit: I will focus on this when i have worked some other threads out. I will figure something out.

SocialDeliveryDude - January 27, 2018, 11:23 am hope this can get resolved.

Silver Fang - January 27, 2018, 11:23 am
Edit: Picture was added where the term stated.

As the term was that they will pay with the revenue they get from the project and they haven't so i guess it's a valid reason.. however sure ethics are questionable.

Solution is maybe to just give back the project.

M?xim - January 27, 2018, 1:34 pm
@Scorpion. Taking a 3-day vac ban because things just gave me a headache with all community alerts and whatnot.

Am not running away or avoiding anything. I will talk to Marwix during the time.

The thing with the Java Keylogger, it has been fixed. All panels works, login system etc. It's just that you need someone who can take over the project who knows PHP, who can make their own auto-buy system, and handle DDOS attacks. Marwix and I took us upon the project without knowing what is to come. Marwix is a programmer and i study biology. We lack the PHP part. But again. I will present a solution when am back. I think i have one already, but need to look over it.

He's right, Maxim. You've taken a project and then said you can't handle the burden that comes with it. Even if you was meant to pay with the profits and you never made none that's not scorpion's fault that yours and your partners. At the end of the day you broke the terms of the deal so you should seek another way to pay your half, whether it comes out of your pocket or not. You can't try and give a project back because it didn't work out. That's not how business works.

Admittedly, if this was any other user the community would be ripping the shreds out of them and talking about some legal shit.

Edit: I will focus on this when i have worked some other threads out. I will figure something out.

1. I've been pushing you for my money for WEEKS upon WEEKS. That was just ONE of the times I was telling you that I wanted my money back (and in that message saying I would make a DD).

2. No, the deal was NOT for profits. My exact words: You will give me 75% of sales revenue until I am paid $1,050. The full amount must be paid within 40 days.

You were to give me 75% of sales revenue, meaning you would owe me $15 from a $20 sale. and you obviously skipped over the second sentence "The full amount must be paid within 40 days." I have not been paid ANY money of the $1,050 owed to me.

3. You said that you gave me a solution which would be reselling the project, but I never even saw this as you wiped the discord/KICKED me out so I couldn't access the messages to screenshot and call you out with on the deal dispute. Luckily you weren't smart enough to realize I saw that coming and screenshotted everything.

Makes sense.

On this project, I, personally, made about $50. That was payments in Perfect Money. It's probably still there.

And seriously, show me statistics on that statement; users with more than 1,000 rep and half of them scam and get away of it. Bet you can't.

If I wanted to scam, I would have made a lot more than like $50 in profits, don't you think?

On this project, I, personally, made about $50. That was payments in Perfect Money. It's probably still there.

And seriously, show me statistics on that statement; users with more than 1,000 rep and half of them scam and get away of it. Bet you can't.

If I wanted to scam, I would have made a lot more than like $50 in profits, don't you think? You have already scammed him, its a shame that you scam someone for that low amount.

We bought a domain, different hosts (since most didn't work) and providing promotion - Everything to make jLog #1 product for customers. We spent so much money and didn't earn enough to pay for the website and for you. Besides, we had a bunch of issues with the server and the product overall. These problems was never an issue back in the days when we sold jLog ourselves so I am not entirely sure why it became such a big issue now.

Scorpion, you should know that there was a point where we had all the money for you but you were never online so we didn't know what to do. We waited for weeks but you never came online so you should also blame yourself for being stupid and offline on all platforms.

On this project, I, personally, made about $50. That was payments in Perfect Money. It's probably still there.

I know that this is an "old" thread.
But I'd like to point something out.

Getting into a business is always risky, making a partnership agreement is always risky.
People can end up in a huge debt, I've known people who made a business together and one of the parts took loans in the business meaning it would eventually crash and both would owe huge amounts of money because they're both jointly and severally liable towards paying them back.
It's a fact that things just doesn't always work out as planned, often both parties goes into a deal with good intentions but if you could just start up a business and earn massive amounts of cash, everyone would do it.
It just aint that simple.

What I'm trying to say is that I'd not call this a scam.
A scam is when you intend to steal from somebody.
This is a failed partnership, these guys tried to start up a business, it didn't work out, period.
I'm defending Maxim and Marwix here, I can totally see where OP is coming from, he's in a really frustrating situation.
One could discuss if Maxim and Marwix could have ended this in another way, maybe by proposing to pay the "debt" off in the beginning, but what defines a scammer is someone who intend to do so.

I think that lots of people are ranting about this because Maxim is a part of the Mentors, which is why I found it important to clarify these things.
When dealing with a scam report people should generally stay objective and look at the case itself, instead of the involved.
This is clearly a sign of miscommunication between the parts, nothing more nothing less.

This statement is spot on.

There have been more notable members demoted for less in these past few months.

Myself included.

However i at least have made a public apology for my wrong doings in the past.

Here we have a simi staff member blatantly abusing his (Mentor) statues to defraud/steel moneys from the members of this forum he was given too (Mentor) too?

I find it hard to believe he still hold such a higher position as a Mentor and continues as though nothing has happened.

IMO: This make the Mentors group look bad and untrustworthy of any trust.

I highly agree with what you said.

It's unfair a mentor within the community thinks it's ok to ignore a scam report for months and give negative reputations to members who are concerned regarding this scam report. It's unfair, and this shouldn't be how HF should be in 2018.

The fact of the matter is Maxim is part of the Mentor group as of this date.

How this member gained this position of importance and continues to hold this status is beyond believe.

However seeing how this thread is now 6 month's old (01-25-2018, 10:15 PM) and there has been

It's fair to say this will go undissolved.

I feel for the OP for a upper staff member (Mentor) can do this and is very sad indeed.
Scammed $1,050 by Maxim is no chump change.

And yes as we all have experienced anyone that replies to this thread get Neg-ed and get put on the ignore list.
Nothing new and or out of the ordinary.

did maxim refund him?????

tweety - July 9, 2018, 12:28 pm so i just realized that marwix is little allan aka noname fail look what he turned into, a little scammer and still pretending to be dev greedy, greedy little boys

Am not running away or avoiding anything. I will talk to Marwix during the time.

The thing with the Java Keylogger, it has been fixed. All panels works, login system etc. It's just that you need someone who can take over the project who knows PHP, who can make their own auto-buy system, and handle DDOS attacks. Marwix and I took us upon the project without knowing what is to come. Marwix is a programmer and i study biology. We lack the PHP part. But again. I will present a solution when am back. I think i have one already, but need to look over it.

Incredibly competent php programmer here and ddos protection is simple as a round robin with server providers with decent mitigation (vox, ovh, etc), majority of php programmers would just contract a java/c (good malware is native <3) coder and do the rest on their own (most php developers know full stack).

You don't necessarily need to sell it to someone who knows php whereas to someone who's willing to spend the extra penny to contract a php developer. If you're willing to make the extra step I'd suggest hiring someone to create the autobuy system and buff the edges and then trying selling it in something like the member auctions. However, given the current predicament that may not be possible.

I'd like to see you be paid back for this.

Edit: Marwix was just closed.

#Skyline - August 27, 2018, 10:47 pm

1 down 1 more to go lads.

[$(5)$] - August 28, 2018, 1:45 pm

Yeah we're waiting for a resolution to this.

kiwi - August 31, 2018, 2:25 am

I'm curious if this was ever resolved?

Vanilla - August 31, 2018, 2:40 pm

How TF is Maxim a mentor. Who made this dip shit a mentor lmao. Flexes his car but can't do the right thing and pay scorpion back?? Whether it was shit source or not, a deal is a deal. Let the neg rep flow in!!

int - August 31, 2018, 2:59 pm

how long until maxim gets closed?

G0dzSoldiers - August 31, 2018, 2:59 pm

Very sad but like many members had said alot of big members do this type of stuff and think they can get away with it - most do hope this gets resolved.

Lmao Maxim logged in but ignored this.

Bear - November 15, 2018, 9:56 am

OP, did the scammer pay you back? Just saw him yodeling around, so thought of giving this some light.

Just got a -5 from him for calling him out for this, little did he forget that I can do the same lol.

Pountern - November 28, 2018, 1:12 am you should reupload the pics as they not valid so cannot see whole dispute

OFFICE365 - January 26, 2019, 8:05 am did he pay u back the cash ~??

Surmise - January 26, 2019, 8:10 am

I always thought of Maxim as a high quality member, what a shame.

RiptideZ - March 13, 2019, 11:29 pm

I'm kind of on the fence about this one (no, I didn't make it to the last page to see if it was resolved).

I understand where the OP is coming from, but, at the same time I understand where Maxim is coming from.

The keylogger was in a broken state when the agreement was made. It's now in a working state, due to the work that Maxim and Marwix did.

He doesn't want to give the OP a working keylogger, when the OP gave him a broken keylogger... Which is reasonable. No sane person would want to hand over their work like that.

This is why you keep backups. You scrap your work, and hand the keylogger back in the condition that the OP gave it to you in. DD resolved.

EDIT:

At least that's what I've gathered from the OP and the few replies that I read from Maxim.

If I'm wrong then I'm wrong.

SECOND EDIT:

If by any chance you do have back ups, Maxim, and you didn't think to do what I suggested then you owe me money.

No free lawyering here.
