Ever get so bored that you decide to mess with that one guy who thinks he owns the world cause he's about to spend the last 20 dollars of his unemployment check to buy 5 minutes of attention from an online whore?

I literally never talk to these guys, normally just an instant block. But something made him special. Here's screenshots of what I thought was a very fun conversation:

Sent him a picture of my asshole and asked if he liked the test drive ? ?

He is retarded af.

One time I sent a preview to a guy, he screenshot it and he didn't want to pay for more, so I just stop responding him, after that he said that if I did not send him more picture he would post them on internet. First I act like a poor losted girl and sent him 2 pics from the girl, then my asshole like you. I laugh hard when he said "it will make more pictures to post"

Right after talking about the asshole pic, I scrolled down.....only to find a subway sandwich meme. "Unknown internet slut". That about sums us up. Lmao.

If money is your motive, it's best not to fluster yourself with people like that. They'll only make you more upset, and kill your motivation to make money.

This was all just for shits and giggles. I was bored with my college homework so I decided to play around with some lonely idiot. It's almost like those "Messing with Sasquatch commercials" lol.
