Looks promissing, just somewhat expensive, seen people offer this type of services for as little as $5, with the same info given. What makes your service better than the competition?

I spend more than 10 minutes on any investigation. I usually work several days up to a week on one dox. While I do respect people offering a similar service, you'll never get a dox with like 15 lines of very basic information.

My investigations are all supported by extra media, verification and are very extensive. One dox will almost always be over 200 lines of information.

Understandable, but I've seen some people finish doxes pretty quick, now just because they finish the dox quick doesn't necessarily mean it's a bad dox.

The number of lines is irrelevant here. I could make a dox with like 1k lines, of unuseful information such as Nmap scans and other crap to fill it up.

At the end, the result will be the same, ("name", "address" etc) regardless if you take 10 days and others take 10 minutes, 200 lines, or 20 lines.

All we really want is the JUICY INFO. Not some extra added lines for nonsense, ya dig?
Nonetheless GLWS.

It's just a title to show I am a big data enthusiast. I analyse big data on a daily basis because of my current studies. Maybe it sounds a bit odd since I translated this literally from Italian.

What separates your doxing skills from everyone else? Private databases? What?

All collected information is double-checked, verified and documented. I also have some private databases, yes. You won't ever get a 30 lines long document from me. Although people have told me that is literally what they got after paying someone, I wouldn't ever charge money if that is all the info I was able to get. They'd get a refund straight away lmao.

If you have more in-depth questions regarding my service, please do post them. I'm happy to answer them.
