What is Snuckls all about?

Snuckls is a lottery game site that you can join for free. To take part in this opportunity, all you need to do is sacrifice a bit of time.

The website is available worldwide so you can join from any part of the globe and win some money. You can either redeem your winning in a gift card or through Paypal. I'm sure most would prefer the latter as it's more convenient and more importantly it's real money.

You will need to be invited before you can join Snuckls, meaning you must be referred by someone. Snuckls Invite Code

How does it Work?

Once you're inside, you will have to watch 5 videos first to get a lottery ticket. You will have a maximum of 10 entries per draw so that means you will have to watch 50 videos if you want to enter 10 times to increase your chances of winning anything.

This is an example of what it will look like once you click on the video. As you can see below there is a timer. You will have to let the timer complete before you can do anything else. The length of the videos vary from one another but typically not very long.

You don't really have to watch the videos. You can open them in one tab and move on to another tab while the time runs out. However, you might lose out on knowing what the video is all about.

Once the timer runs out, right below they will ask you a question on what category is the video. If you got it wrong, you will have to watch another video to clog your 5 tickets. Try not to get it wrong because you are simply wasting your own time watching more videos.

Site is bugged, when you watch a music video and put "Music" as the answer it counts it wrong. Already happened 2x, so lame.
