Thread: I am going to start new hosting service on hackforums | How should I start ?

hostov - January 30, 2018, 11:26 am

Hello friend , I am going to publish my hosting service provider - website here for all Hack- Forums user . But I need to know that as I am fresh User should I directly start giving service or should I wait some days to increase my post count.

further Do I need to upgrade my account for the same service / any service here .
like it would be necessary to upgrade my account here to give service on hackforums .

Note : I appreciate all feedback from your side .

SLY - January 30, 2018, 11:59 am

Users will take you more seriously if you are a upgraded member on HF. I would recommend be more active on the forum and make contributions before you start providing a service.

?heshire - January 30, 2018, 12:01 pm

I would personally take a look at all the current hosting services on HF and try to offer a service that excels at things that those services lack, and capitalize on that point. Best to make something that people can see as a superior product than just another hosting service.

Do you have existing clients? Or is it a new service?

your ideas are great brother . One more thing comes in my mind , that people do prefer USA server for hosting but what other countries would be preferable to provide these services like I have connection of HONGKONG server for VPS| RDP . so I am going to publish very soon .

I have started new website brother , and this is my website : www.Hostovo.com

I am providing multiples services on my site but right now I am working on only Hosting part of service which is live on my website . also I would love to take feedback from you .

Note : I am new web - developer so if you found any issue on my website please do update me friends I will do correct it its still on some development mode .

Very good question....

Also @OP...

I generally recommend getting known for your area of expertise first before opening a service, if members know and see you around talking in those areas (For you, Webhosting) they will be more likely to give your services a try.

Did you research this market? You have a lot of competition. It is a good choice for long term business but you will have to endure the first months where you won't be making much money. I say, stick with it and try to keep building and learning about that market.

Shorta - January 30, 2018, 2:15 pm

Serious question not directly pointed at you as a whole but.

What's the point here? Isn't this market so saturated?

Also, why would I ever buy hosting from someone on here, instead of going to some of the most reputable hostings which is also cheap, because hosting is cheaping.

Any hackforums user could see my files, and I have the risk of the service closing down any time, because let's face it, it's hackforums, and just in general, a lot of hostings goes down either soon or a couple months into it.

And you might say you don't do that, or it's against your policies to view our stuff, but I would never trust a no name hosting with my stuff.

Again, this is directed to everyone here doing hosting.
This is why I never dare that section.

Prepare your site and servers to be tested by the community. Hosting is a great service to offer here but you better know what you're doing.

He speaks the truth.

30 mins of my sales thread posting for Orcus I got attacked via a massive DDoS all across my network.

Be prepared.... ?

FamousHater - January 30, 2018, 5:06 pm start by paying for l33t as if you are starting a hosting service then im sure you have $20 to spare for an orange username.

I fairly see a lot of User provide same service here on this forum but I came up with better service to make my place different . I know Burnham Sir , that I will not make money for the first time neither this thing in my mind about money . I am just experiencing the market for now . later on I will move to Provide service thread Here .

That's the best advice I can give to you as well.

Take the time to learn the trade, then go off and sell your services in the marketplace.

Throughout my years on here, I have seen so many hosts go up and fall shortly thereafter.

I wish you good luck. ?

I really loved your question "Shorta" . You are true that the why one would buy hosting service from me . But I think platform of source can Be anything .until and unless if you are doing something different people will really gonna trust you . as Burnham Said above , " I will not make money for the first time But at-least they would start trusting me .

No my friend , My thread was about How should I proceed On hackforums but I am looking forward now because all above members have suggested me How to follow up . I will soon post a thread about Hosting service Here which I can assure people will consider .

HeisenbergNL - January 31, 2018, 11:59 am

Look at what all the other people are offering and make a better offer. Especially in hosting, people here want to be sure they are anonymous and that the servers are offshore. I wish you all the luck!

Interesting! So you want to serve both small and power users? You have to know both groups are differently demanding, unless you're offering a very personal service, with 24/7 support. I think bigger users will appreciate something like that.

my website is already finished Brother just a minor changes need to be done . and there would be no group pricing , it would be affordable and convenient for everyone.

if still i will feel i should update pricing i will do it for sure .

Start off with a budget, purchase a thread design, pay for HF stickies, upgrade to L33t, and make sure everything you have is as custom as can be.
