

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Web design and Development help

Workaholic312 - January 30, 2018, 2:35 pm

I wanted to know if someone knew a place who would create my personal website at an affordable price. I can't afford $2,000 for a professional company to make my site. I am wondering if anyone knows a company who can help me out and build mine. I have been helping people for years now with their credit. I want to put my ideas online but I just don't know of a good company or person who works in web development, I don't want a random person to make my site. I am asking for someone who knows anyone who can help...

JillOk - January 30, 2018, 2:39 pm

(Jan 30, 2018 03:35 PM)Workaholic312 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I wanted to know if someone knew a place who would create my personal website at an affordable price. I can't afford $2,000 for a professional company to make my site. I am wondering if anyone knows a company who can help me out and build mine. I have been helping people for years now with their credit. I want to put my ideas online but I just don't know of a good company or person who works in web development, I don't want a random person to make my site. I am asking for someone who knows anyone who can help...

There are many "professional" people here on HF that has experience with Web Design etc. Or you can learn it yourself. You could also always download a template online :)

James Burnham - January 30, 2018, 2:41 pm

Can you explain what a "personal website" is? A personal wordpress blog with bio and portfolio?

Workaholic312 - January 30, 2018, 3:31 pm

I have downloaded templates, it's so confusing doing it on my own, I need a credit repair site built, with WordPress. I tried to learn it, but it's way to complicated to figure out. I am sure a lot of people feel the same way, but for me. I tried and I get so frustrated and its stressful, my domain is keycreditfix.com I did some work on it already with a template I downloaded and uploaded to my site, but I contacted the company which is host gator and they want to charge me so much money to build it and I can't afford it. I am going to start a go fund me page possibly if I can get people to help me raise the money to build it if I can't find some company that will do it cheaper. I called a few companies but all of them want to charge an outrages amount of money to build it for me.

Saew - January 30, 2018, 3:32 pm

Hello if u want professional with WordPress PM me we are company i have a lot of skill with web developer etc/design/css/java and more

James Burnham - January 30, 2018, 3:45 pm

(Jan 30, 2018 04:31 PM)Workaholic312 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have downloaded templates, it's so confusing doing it on my own, I need a credit repair site built, with WordPress. I tried to learn it, but it's way to complicated to figure out. I am sure a lot of people feel the same way, but for me. I tried and I get so frustrated and its stressful, my domain is keycreditfix.com I did some work on it already with a template I downloaded and uploaded to my site, but I contacted the company which is host gator and they want to charge me so much money to build it and I can't afford it. I am going to start a go fund me page possibly if I can get people to help me raise the money to build it if I can't find some company that will do it cheaper. I called a few companies but all of them want to charge an outrages amount of money to build it for me.

I did not know that credit repairing is a thing till now. I googled it a bit and I found some sellers of premade scripts in that niche. I have no idea whether they are legit or not. You will need a dashboard for users to check the stage of their order, right?