I'm very interested in this, by any chance do you have fresh email lists?

I mean, it doesn't hurt to include some more information (on where the emails are sent from, where they end up- though it's obviously going to be inbox) publicly.

It helps us window shop and helps you because there's less of the same question in PMs a thousand times, you feel?

Also edit your 'Remove this please' post, as he deleted it. You're still including the original post though.

Thanks for the advice, but I feel that if you need to ask a question I can better answer it personally and I have a better opportunity to sell my service. Also thanks for reminding me to remove that.
