Congratulations, seems like your Shopify career started good.

I'm somewhat of an entrepreneur myself, $35k in profits so far and I was wondering if you could satisfy my curiosity.

How much % of this is profit?

How long do people on average wait until their product arrives?

Marketing 101.

I bet these earnings are all fake, same as vouches.

Squalo active as fuck on this thread, the fact that there is no connection between this amazing "profit" and excitement, happiness or even at least a bit of motivation tells me this is as fake as can be. Probably just another one of his friends.

Hating 101.

When you're broke/jealous, hating is the #1 solution.

If I wanted clients, I would have created a thread to promote my coaching. I never PM anyone and force them into my coaching.

If anything, I refuse 95% of the people who PM me. Even if it was the case, it's not like it's a bad thing to help people make money ?

Oh, and if saying the earnings are is not hating then idk what it is.

There's quite a lot of people on HF that use the "Fake it til you make it" but I believe that Squalo is not doing that.

He gave me sound advice when I started off my third Shopify store that helped propel me to the right path on my journey.

Several courses & multiple failures later, I can say that his advice helped me out. (Just free advice, I didn't take part of his mentorship - it was $500 at the time)

Lastly, no need to be butthurt that he's having success + there's nothing wrong with how he's marketing his coaching product.

I'm not saying for certain that he's a scam, or saying that his Shopify mentorship is shit, I'm just stating the obvious, it all looks like a built up marketing scheme for kids to fall in to. I stated my reasons for this in my first post.

Whether that is the truth, I don't know. I'm just stating my opinion.

I get tons and tons of PM every single for mentoring people. I refuse to mentor 99% of those people. I could have scammed over 30k with ease and invest that money into Crypto.
If my job is to scam then I am doing one hell of a shitty job.

I'm legit dropping knowledge to people who ask questions on my students' threads so there's nothing being wrong with me being active on their threads.

None of those I've helped are my friends. Sure, I can't prove that but just go on Teamviewer with them by yourself and you'll be able to confirm their earnings. I don't have anything to prove but I'll just use this post for future reference when people label me as a scammer.

It's always the same thing, you show people to make thousands of dollars online and people start to doubt you not because you're an actual scammer but because they cannot have similar results or are jealous so they bring down people.

As posted before, I paid $83 yesterday to run 2 different ads on 2 different influencers.

Average combined was 24k likes per post and I got around 1k likes and 90 visitors.

Guess how many sales..... Drum roll

Nothing hehe.

I run out of funds for ads and not sure what to do now since I invested almost $120 into this store lmao.

Anyways, wish me good luck finding a new niche or getting this one to work.

Good luckon scaling your Shopify store!
