speedcluster - February 9, 2018, 1:59 pm

For optional buyer, here is screenshot Mining XMR(Monero) cryptonight algorithm average per RDP is 80-130 Hashrate

markownikoff - February 9, 2018, 2:10 pm

The RDPs look clean.

I will try mining on them.

000HAT - February 9, 2018, 6:14 pm

speedcluster - February 10, 2018, 4:30 am

Thanks for vouching all,

I'll try my best to all costumers would be pleased

P.S Hurry up mates, Users here ask me why I have so cheap prices any other services per Normal RDP pirce starts from 7 $

Because for me it's a startup service soon it will be other price !

Roberto Scorpius Malfoy - February 10, 2018, 6:25 am

Looks like you have something interesting here, nice price i highly recommend to deal with user if you are searching for rdps

Savage1101 - February 10, 2018, 7:03 am

I asked OP for a RDP to review and clearly mentioned I was going to use it for mining.

He gave me French RDP that quite slow internet in my opinion but the specs were what he promised.

I couldn't run my miner due to lack of admin rights, thus I'd obviously have to get a silent miner.

The seller seems to be a nice guy but he doesn't seem to be able to answer obvious questions.

He said that the RDP he gave me is not meant for mining and when I asked why are you advertising as mining allowed he just went offline xD

I don't know what's going on with him but I at least would like to get some more info.

speedcluster - February 10, 2018, 7:26 am

I gave him my one of RDP for free so what you want in additional try to buy it and I will be responsible to my RDP's

Sorry but I can't be here 24/7 also I told you that I must go

Lol

LiftMaster - February 10, 2018, 7:27 am

Both RDPs I bought work fine, specs as stated. Also having problems with admin privs but cant complain. For the price there great.

EDIT: Did speed test 73down 30up big vouch on that.

Lol

It seems like my discord received the message with delay or something . I saw it just now.

Edit: Just to clarify my last post, I only seek clear answers that's all. No intention to trash OPs sales :)

for more clearly I post that RDP with admin right permissions are more expensive you can find out another providers with admin right feature RDP with High Cpu (e.g Intel Xeon cpu e5-2660) costs 10-20 $ per RDP, size depends Cpu core numbers, storage and RAM.

So on my stats people want this RDP's for mining. In my experience with none admin right RDP you can do also visible mining for example xmr-stak-win64 gui it doesn't need setup and there is tons of GUI's which doesn't need setup and you can run it without UAC, also silent mining working without any issues but your Stub must FUD, hope this issue is clearly for everyone that your silent mining Stub must be FUD, Thanks

P.S My cheapest price 3 $ is temporary it will increase soon. I also posted it above, Thanks for attention

The RDP's were good, but most of them already had miners running. He replaced RDP's which were not working. Fast replies and good service, would recommend.

SIM-82498 - March 8, 2018, 10:32 am

Received some test RDPs for me to review the service. A couple of em' had the credentials changed (presumably, as they didn't work) and the one RDP that did work wasn't able to download and run a specific file I used for the test (due to not being an administrator, therefore couldn't disable Windows Defender). It did have decent specs for mining however, so I'll vouch on that end. Good luck with sales, seems like a lot of customers/reviewers have received positive results, so I'm sure the cons weren't intentional. These are cracked, so caveat emptor.

speedcluster - March 8, 2018, 11:15 am

Good RDPs are hard to find. Speedcluster has put a lot of work into this project and it turned out really well. It's great for finding something to host a website on, mine, and anything else you can think of.

High quality, honest, great support. Speedcluster delivers the best!

(Mar 26, 2018 10:44 AM)Mon£y Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't like to complain on sales threads usually, but I'm really disappointed in my purchase.

I bought 6 RDP's from him, 4 of them said incorrect login, one of them was so restricted you couldn't even open Internet Explorer, never mind mine anything, the other was a dual core with 500MB of RAM, my VM is faster than that..

I asked him for a replacement and he said he can't replace them after a month of purchase.. First of all it had only been 2 weeks since I purchased and the thread says 2 months. This obviously made me angry, after me telling him straight he gave me 6 more and guess what.. Only one of them worked and it was a restricted one again, couldn't transfer any files to it etc. Told him they don't work and he ignored me.

So for $30 I got a shitty dual core RDP that belongs in the trash. His thread clearly states they are new gen Xeon, which is at least 8 cores.

From the experience I've had from his service, he's BADLY false advertising.

He's a really nice guy though so I hope we can resolve this..

hi, do you have any Servers with ubuntu on it?

RickAstley - April 23, 2018, 8:47 am

How long do these tend to last when mining? Craps shoot?

Anyone have experience using these for more than 35 days?

I am very interested.

I see you give bulk deals over $150, how many servers would you offer for $200?

Thanks for your time

Awesome!!!

Before setting up my mining network I tested coinhive on one of the machines and it is running at a constant 25H/s

Not bad for browser mining! I am excited to see where this goes and I will definitely be returning for more business.

Vouch for speedcluster and his business, high quality machines and very reliable service ?

Can I have a sample RDP for 1 month (will pay), if good, I'll then get in bulk. This is because I've been burned by 4 people of HF who promised cheap RDPs but failed to deliver. 1 refunded, 2 ran, and 1 is still making excuses :/

I don't mine. I need to run a traffic bot

(May 6, 2018 12:48 AM)GrandpaSherman Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'd love to test an RDP as well! I need to calculate if mining is profitable it's not about hashrate, it's about how many servers you buy are actually capable of mining. A lot are office machines behind firewalls that block mining ports, antivirus, priv restrictions, etc.

If you test with 1 free server that works then of course it's gonna be profitable, you got it for free ? But if you want to make this an investment (and a profitable one at that) then you had better have some kick ass mining malware, a reliable method for making your miner FUD (Not just crypting it, you need it to be FUD during runtime, in memory, etc), some priv escalation exploits and a hell of a lot of patience.

These servers are not just miners, you can do a lot with RDPs, especially ones with sensitive data get creative hope this helps, enjoy! ?

$200 well spent

After having some issues with various mining setups and working out all the kinks, you monero miners will be netting about 300H/s from between 3 and 5 servers.

Sometimes these servers die after OP cracks or go offline, etc. Save all of them and after you do your dirty work on the machines that are easily accessible go back and check them again.

A lot of them are in different languages and some have different keyboards.

All the machines are valuable if they work.

Some have AWESOME data to pull and some are super restricted via firewall and user privileges so they're hard to pull data from. I recommend some public exploits for priv escalation. Github.

Some of these are common logins and have been exploited by seemingly a lot of people, those are usually your miners if you have a good stub and a strong botkiller. Otherwise just rip people's exploits off the box.

There are many ways to make this worth it, but don't come in thinking you will infect 500 RDPs at 3Ghz in 4 hours after you buy the servers and get rich for life.

You have to work to make these work for you, but they work damn good

Bandi - June 20, 2018, 2:15 pm

RDP service is not recommended. User provided me an HQ RDP as a sample. So I purchased 10 RDPs.

1. Majority of them were college computers with dual core processors and 2-4GB RAM.
2. None of them lasted more than 2 days. In some RDP's, I had crypto miners running. So I guessed administrator closed because of that. But even the ones that I had not run anything stopped working in a couple of days as well. User gave me replacements once. The same thing happened again to them as well.

wilkip - June 27, 2018, 3:32 am

BOUGHT FROM THIS SCAMER 20 RDP FOR 50 ALL OF THEM WAS WORKING BUT WRONG LOCATIONS !

THEN HE FINNALLY OFFERED ME TO BUY RDP WITH ME NEEDED LOCATIONS , SO I PAID HIM ANOTHER 30 USD FOR 6 HE SEND ME THEM 2 DAYS LATER AND NONE OF THEM WAS WORKING , NOW HE BALNKS ME !

THIS KID IS ABSALUTE WASTE OF TIME ! DO NOT RESPONDS TO MESSAGES !
