SOLVED! User just had to go and he didnt even mean to scam me!

Silver Haz3 - February 6, 2018, 10:30 am well, its a fresh one, give him the time

Yelling - February 6, 2018, 10:31 am

Why would someone go off and ignore me (not by using option to ignore) after sending him money?

I get ya, why you didn't use an MM?

Yelling - February 6, 2018, 10:41 am

It was so hard for me to find a good mid man + its hard to connect us all together. There isnt like some sht to create group chat or smthng..

I have done quite a few deals with Productivity in the past, I highly doubt he would rip anyone for $40..

Give him time, PM him. And try resolve this.

Edit:

OP you need to learn some patience....

This transaction was less than 2 hours ago. He likely is just busy, or waiting for the confirmations....

You opened a dispute less than 2 hours after you made the deal.

Guess what dick weed, not everyone lives at their keyboard. He might have had to run out or do something.

You need to provide proof of sending him the amount. So if true this thread can be disregarded

You can see I sent it to the correct address via Coinbase a while ago now, he just has no patience.

Expect this thread to be updated

Patience is a virtue my friend, I owe someone $300 still since December.

I am not ducking out on them, just had a shitty couple months with medical bills.

A lot of scams happen around here, but if you talk to them and be understanding and above all deal with the right people its decent to do business, but as noted above, if ever in question always use a middle man like Minimalist.

I sent you a PM on Skype about this, not sure if you ever got it though.
