Thread: What was the happiest moment in your life?

Pasific - February 6, 2018, 3:57 pm

I am pretty curious to know what the happiest moment in your life was.

For me personally, I actually don't really know. There are lots of happy moments I have had, but not one that peaks it all.

DeadKube - February 6, 2018, 3:58 pm

Every fucking night when I go to bed and don't have a single thought inside my hideous brain is the moment I'm happiest.

Hydraxus - February 6, 2018, 3:58 pm

Happiest moment in my life was when I started smoking that kush.

Definitely the way to go.

Kuso - February 6, 2018, 4:00 pm

I was never happy growing up bro. When I started doing hellah drugs, I guess you could say i was close.

I suppose happiness is only the absence of negative emotions, wouldn't you think so?

420 blaze all the way boiii

Ravioli - February 6, 2018, 4:02 pm

being on shrooms was probably one of the best and happiest experiences of my life.

Drugs aren't good for the long-term. At that point, you can only find happiness with them.

Those are sure very unrelated moments.

I think OP was looking for one main one though.

If you're talking about the event I'm thinking about, hopefully that will happen to me quite soon as well. Because I'm dying waiting right now.

Lmao i think i know what you mean ?

Sigma - February 6, 2018, 4:13 pm

One of the happiest moments of my life is when I went to Aruba for a week.

Eh. Got to the point where in my life I don't find any interest in happiness. I more so take the on reality and whats need to be done.

Satisfaction makes me good.

My happiest moment is everyday. :) living is fun.

Prophett - February 7, 2018, 6:37 am

Coming to university. Met so many great people and became more sociable.

sAVITAR - February 7, 2018, 6:51 am

Not sure, sleeping is nice tho. Still have a lot of happy moments to go though :P

Like another user said in this post, my happiest time is when you have nothing to worry about, no time to worry about or dates or plans just pure bliss. And it never really happens until you detach yourself from the world entirely.

True.

Going to bed with nothing on your mind is freedom. However I also feel happy when I do night-walks and think about stuff and come up with ideas.

nicksaban1 - February 7, 2018, 8:02 am

I honestly do not know. If I am to think about it, I would say when I got my first car, or truck.

BTC BTC BTC - February 7, 2018, 8:47 am

I wish I had a memory that would spring to mind. Unfortunately I don't, hopefully one day.

i dont think life should be about "one big moment" anyways, so dont worry.

mawrek - February 7, 2018, 9:24 am the happiest moment of my life is when i didn't exist.

You know what else isn't good for the long-term? LIFE

(Feb 7, 2018 10:29 AM)Splice Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Happiest moment of my life was when my son was born.i once (in fact, it was my female partner) did an abortion.

i wouldn't call it the happiest moment in my life, but i was glad enough when that problem was solved

This. ^^

I'm never really happy tbh.. I have social anxiety, OCD, some depression, health anxiety so yeah.

Happiest moment of my life for me was probably meeting my long distance girlfriend in persona. Was an amazing first time seeing her.

I was going to post on this thread but had this exact thought.

Honestly, I don't know what it would be.
