I went from dial-up to satellite about 5 years ago. My internet has always been like this.

Even paying for better speeds (1mb to 5mb) there is no difference in loading times because of my ping.

Over the fall, a company installed the fiber line along my street but ground frost formed before they could do house hookups.

My speeds will be 800mb-1gb once I get it hooked up, I can't wait!

I just download everything at my college for now. Downloaded photoshop in minutes whereas back home it would take a couple days.

I am getting fiber optic soon so my life with shitty speeds is almost over. Been dealing with these speeds all my life.

Also to note, speed isn't my top annoyance, it is the ping.

The ping is quite okay but the upload speed is not really fast. so when he is trying to upload some big things that will take longer for him.

not too sure how it's a forums game. It's more of a show us what your internet speed is.

what is a game: a form of play or sport, especially a competitive one played according to rules and decided by skill, strength, or luck.

there's no competition here

No forum games like "person above you", "opinion of you" or one word response threads.

This is a one link response, I would see this as a forum game, there is no point but spam in this thread.

and it gets posted every 1-3 months, sssssssss.

I would hope people aren't only responding with their speed tests and actually following forum rules by adding words with it.

Do you live somewhere that doesn't provide higher speeds?

Or do you live somewhere like out in the woods? Before I moved into the place I am in now, I had satellite which... rivaled dial-up.

It was all because my last house was in the middle of 75 acres.

Jsut ran a test getting 25mbps down while I am paying for 50, getting bent over by ATT, luckily now that Charter, Brighthouse, and TW merged they offer an amazing package where I am that will be substantially cheaper and 3 times as fast, gonna get that very soon
