Thread: Trying to make a small legit living

QuestionableJunkie - March 5, 2018, 6:26 am

Im turning 15 this year, new member of hackforums. I want to get some ideas from you experienced people out here on legit ways of making a small income stream online or in real life. I had some ideas like selling youtube view services or game boosting services, but im not really that free to sit in front of the computer for hours on end. I can however get regular access. I hope i am not bothering anyone with my stupid questions, but my purpose is good natured, just want some ideas from y'all.

If giving any extra details would help, i might as well do. Up to 20USD a week would be great already for a start, and my computer specs arent really good for mining. Maybe selling something at my school would work but im not really the best salesperson out there, and my school is relatively small, so selling any product would be hard. I was also looking into affiliations, like promoting stuff for a company or a product and getting some commission from it. What do you guys think? Do i have a chance or am i just another retarded kid who thinks making money is easy?

I would suggest you try the bitcointalk.org Signature campaigns. That's the easiest way to make money in Internet. Just register there and start posting as much as possible to achieve higher member level. The higher level you are the more money you make from signature campaigns. Use few accounts but to different signature campaign and you can make way more than that

I wouldn't really bother with the answer above. If you want to make money, understand how people make money in general. People make money from offering someone else value, whether that's through a product or service. I wouldn't suggest using any of the methods here but instead look at how people your age are already making money. Maybe try learning some skill or trying to get good at something people need.

I'll pm you some ref links, but I don't think you can make a living out of this.

Nevermind, I already sent you my ref links.

I'd suggest you try this if not: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5775384>
