The exam is in beta at the moment but you can literally book onto it and sit the exam for like 50 dollars.

Anyone else looked into doing this new strictly pen testing certification?

What would you suggest as study material??

Ha .. odd let me make a few calls and send out a few emails I'll update as I get info

Edit: Alright got one so far he took it start of Feb, he said that webapps are covered but also scenario based and you have to know the tools. Like you have to understand how it works and how the tools work, also it is rather challenging much better than CEH.
