

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: "You're allowed only to edit your thread 15 times"

Pink - Panther - March 12, 2018, 5:40 am

I ran into a problem that I can edit my own thread only 15 times, which is a bit annoying as it's my sales thread.

Is it possible to make it unlimited? Apparently L33T upgrade says that posts can be edited for up to 30 days.

Edit: I think this thread would be a great invitation to raise the edits limit or change the way it works as it's obstructing to people with sales threads.

Renowned - March 12, 2018, 5:41 am

This is a new feature brought in by Omniscient.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5808840>

Woods - March 12, 2018, 5:42 am

It is a new hing implemented, I'm not a big fan of it when it comes to my threads but oh well.

Pink - Panther - March 12, 2018, 6:05 am

But don't you guys think this is an obstruction for people who manage sales threads and need to, for example, update the vouches or important information?

I think more freedom needs to be given here, because I'm sure many people edit their sales threads a ton. This feature would cause unnecessary misunderstandings with services who can't state any changes/updates and would have to create a new thread for their sales - unnecessary spam.

Also I've been contacted by a staff member to remove certain information from my thread and apparently that was the last edit I was able to do.

Saltpeter - March 12, 2018, 6:09 am

(Mar 12, 2018 06:05 AM)Pirate Hancock Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) But don't you guys think this is an obstruction for people who manage sales threads and need to, for example, update the vouches or important information?

The number of edits you can make reset every sixty days. Do you really need to update a sales thread more often than that?

Pink - Panther - March 12, 2018, 6:11 am

(Mar 12, 2018 06:09 AM)Aerodactyl Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The number of edits you can make reset every sixty days. Do you really need to update a sales thread more often than that?

Yes. Don't you think sixty days is a lot of waiting time? Especially when you just create the thread, and especially sales thread, you would keep going over it and fix any typos, errors or would want to improve it. At least I do personally, so it does take at least 5 edits.

I believe this limit is unnecessary.

SIM-1166170 - March 12, 2018, 6:16 am

(Mar 12, 2018 06:11 AM)Pirate Hancock Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes. Don't you think sixty days is a lot of waiting time? Especially when you just create the thread, and especially sales thread, you would keep going over it and fix any typos, errors or would want to improve it. At least I do personally, so it does take at least 5 edits.

I believe this limit is unnecessary.

Any edit within the first hour of original post is not counted/logged.

? Soufian ? - March 12, 2018, 6:16 am

(Mar 12, 2018 06:09 AM)Aerodactyl Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The number of edits you can make reset every sixty days. Do you really need to update a sales thread more often than that?

60 days is a lot, especially when you want to add "vouches" or whatever to your thread every now and then.

Pink - Panther - March 12, 2018, 6:17 am

(Mar 12, 2018 06:16 AM)z??h Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Any edit within the first hour of original post is not counted/logged.

I understand. But it has been a few days and I feel there is a need to update my thread but there is no longer such option for my sales thread. It's unfortunate.

I'm sure there are many other people who would run into this problem, especially those who put daily/weekly information updates on their threads.

(Mar 12, 2018 06:16 AM)? Soufian ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 60 days is a lot, especially when you want to add "vouches" or whatever to your thread every now and then.

Indeed.

Meow - March 12, 2018, 6:20 am

Do you really have to add every single vouch? Wait until you get 5-10 vouches and edit the thread with them all at once.

SIM-1166170 - March 12, 2018, 6:22 am

(Mar 12, 2018 06:17 AM)Pirate Hancock Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I understand. But it has been a few days and I feel there is a need to update my thread but there is no longer such option for my sales thread. It's unfortunate.

I'm sure there are many other people who would run into this problem, especially those who put daily/weekly information updates on their threads.

Indeed.

I'm not a fan of the new change myself- however it is needed. There has always been abuse issues.

FamousHater - March 12, 2018, 6:22 am

(Mar 12, 2018 06:16 AM)? Soufian ? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 60 days is a lot, especially when you want to add "vouches" or whatever to your thread every now and then.

yea it seems ok

only users who would have this issue is Currency exchangers

Friedrich Nietzsche - March 12, 2018, 6:23 am

(Mar 12, 2018 06:11 AM)Pirate Hancock Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes. Don't you think sixty days is a lot of waiting time? Especially when you just create the thread, and especially sales thread, you would keep going over it and fix any typos, errors or would want to improve it. At least I do personally, so it does take at least 5 edits.

I believe this limit is unnecessary.

Use the full editor and then select "preview post" and check for any typos or errors before finally saving the edit.

I'm not a fan of the update either but not much one can do about it.

Pink - Panther - March 12, 2018, 6:23 am

(Mar 12, 2018 06:20 AM)Meow? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Do you really have to add every single vouch? Wait until you get 5-10 vouches and edit the thread with them all at once.

We can certainly start talking about the "what ifs" and what could be done not to see the elephant in the room, but it will still be there. The elephant. 10 edits is still not enough, even if you're there only to edit vouches once per 5 or up to 10.

(Mar 12, 2018 06:23 AM)Friedrich Nietzsche Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Use the full editor and then select "preview post" and check for any typos or errors before finally saving the edit.

I'm not a fan of the update either but not much one can do about it.

Yes, but Omni is looking forward to feedback of this as stated on his thread - I hope that is true. Therefore this thread could be a great invitation to change it, since many people find this unnecessary and obstructing.

The only reason to keep it at 10 would be them not being able to keep the logs of edits optimized if updated to higher limit.

Elitas - March 12, 2018, 8:08 am

Do an edit once every 4 days! That will work out at your 15 edit limit after 60 days.

It's really just as simple as that, you don't need to be editing it so much. Plus, we're expecting these limits to be raised soon, AFAIK.

KOTOR - March 12, 2018, 8:55 am

I find it a bit ridiculous that anyone needs to update their thread that often. Even with the case of vouches, most people don't care once you have a certain amount. I would think that most people don't put any consideration into who or how many people vouched for your product when figuring out which product fits their needs.

M?xim - March 12, 2018, 12:33 pm

Title is off. You are not limited to 15 edits period. They get pruned after a time. The system seems to be still WIP.

Omniscient - March 12, 2018, 1:46 pm

Quote:Can edit/delete your own posts up to 30 days

Forgot that was part of the upgrade feature list. I will have to change it in order to be in align with the new post edit history feature.

Actually looking into this I think the feature was broken with a plugin conflict and a new MyBB edit time limit setting. Everyone was able to edit unlimited time if they had edit permissions. I suppose that's why there was so much abuse too. :(

And I think I found another MyBB bug concerning this and secondary group. We'll see after some testing.

Making all the alterations now to the group so that there are no unlimited edit times on the site anymore except for Staff/Admins.

Quote:But don't you guys think this is an obstruction for people who manage sales threads and need to, for example, update the vouches or important information?

It can be obstructive but it can also be necessary.

Quote:I think more freedom needs to be given here

Thanks for your opinion.

We are still developing the feature and it's very likely alterations will be made.

Quote:60 days is a lot, especially when you want to add "vouches" or whatever to your thread every now and then.

I'm not sure adding all those "vouches" is what I consider a valuable edit. Aren't the vouches already in the thread?

Quote:I understand. But it has been a few days and I feel there is a need to update my thread but there is no longer such option for my sales thread. It's unfortunate.

Some of your edits appear to be pointless btw.

Quote:The only reason to keep it at 10 would be them not being able to keep the logs of edits optimized if updated to higher limit.

And isn't that a very good reason? You can adjust to the new limits a lot easier than HF can change servers. We just had 24 hours of downtime for optimizations.

Quote:It's really just as simple as that, you don't need to be editing it so much.

I agree.

Edits will be altered based on usergroup soon and the feature altered to suit the needs of the community (not just one member).