Thread: File Hosting Cloud offers automated backup of specified folder everyday

Which one can let me specify times at which folders will be uploaded to cloud? real time synchronization is shitty because:

- it eats internet
- im operating on files and while they are being uploaded i cant perform actions on them, so uploading them in realtime is NONO

Why not something like google sync? You can set bandwidth limits and stuff. Plus you can edit while they're being uploaded.

Do you mean editing? Edition means like version.

I've never run into this, but I'm not sure what type of file you're using either. Why not just edit it outside of the gdrive folder and move it in when you're done?

And ffs, which staff member decided that this was the correct forum.
