Thread: [\[Orcus Remote Administrator\] The hVNC PoC Release](#)

Nick (Name) - March 21, 2018, 11:32 pm

PoC Video [Video: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=orKAH8eMMY4>]

Summary I know this video is old but I've been getting a lot of private messages about it and where to download it. I don't get on this forum often anymore to answer questions about Orcus or really develop plugins anymore. Sorzus implemented a feature in 1.8.2, I believe, that allowed you to execute programs on the client's machine, either in view, hidden, or hidden and mirrored to the administrator. This feature was very limited as it would only execute programs that you could upload to the client, so I decided to make an extremely simple program to launch other programs installed on the client's machine. In the video I showcase me executing Chrome on the client's machine outside of their view to use their cookies and local data, which pretty much throws out all the reverse proxy bullshit and cookie importing hassle which most malicious users do to gain access to user's accounts and more.

I've notified Orcus Technologies about this point of concept when I first tested it around the first quarter of 2017, no patches have been pushed or any mitigation to prevent this, I feel like I've given them enough time to deal with this potential malicious concept. So I am hereby releasing the point of concept binary, it uses the .NET Framework 3.5 runtime and is not obfuscated, I do NOT want this sold at all, no exceptions, or redistributed without the proper credit, even though the program is extremely simple and anyone with a brain can develop it. I am not responsible with what user's do with this PoC and do not intend it for malicious use.

Changelog

Version 1.0.4.7

- Arguments/parameters can be executed along with the bootstrapped program
- If the program is already running, it will be killed after 10 seconds to allow capture
- More verbal execution process

Version 1.0.5.3

- Assembly info is displayed on console title
- Console hides after process execution
- Fixed issues for Firefox and Brave browsers

before you try to execute it go to task manager and kill all chrome tasks.

after you killed it try to execute it again and you are done.

Vampir - April 28, 2018, 12:22 pm figured out :) and tell me why blinks often, can I fix it?

noticed on win 10 does not blink, at 7 blinks

Nick (Name) - May 8, 2018, 9:07 am

I have updated the bootstrap to resolve some issues that were occurring when using the bootstrap program, here are the changes:

- Arguments/parameters can be executed along with the bootstrapped program
- If the program is already running, it will be killed after 10 seconds to allow capture
- More verbal execution process

I will be recording and uploading a more in-depth and verbal tutorial on how to use the program in the near future to clear up some confusion :)

Egy boi - May 8, 2018, 8:25 pm

So i am a tad new to hacking and rats and stuff of this nature so how do i set this up from the bootstrap? Lmao i probably sound stupid, Thanks.

No it only works with Orcus Administrator, the domain <https://OrcusTechnologies.com/> is currently under review, but the site has been moved to <https://orcus.pw/> temporarily.

Can someone confirm if this HVNC still works well with Orcus?

anonymousboss - June 27, 2018, 4:40 am

Where can I find the Drop & Execute tab in Orcus

Like in the video above

I can't seem to find it in my own Orcus Administration

so basically its RDP where you have access to all their data, except they can't see that you are using it?

thats pretty cool

Yes this still works, not sure if it will when 2.0 gets released, which might be dropping soon.

It's a very limited function with what elements are captured and how clicks are handled, some applications may not even function properly when capturing in hidden view.

inyourmemory - June 27, 2018, 8:48 am

Does this create new user like HRDP, or does it use CreateDesktop etc etc? Does this use VNC protocol?

Yes it does use CreateDesktop, but no it doesn't use VNC at all, there isn't a reason to if you can capture images of the hidden desktop and handle clicks through the Orcus client.

Version 1.0.5.3

- Assembly info is displayed on console title
- Console hides after process execution
- Fixed issues for Firefox and Brave browsers

Thread updated. I'm hoping to release a new tutorial video soon, I'm recovering from the flu, expect the video in the next week.

Netcom - July 3, 2018, 7:37 pm

Thanks, works great! Is it possible to run the program eg: chrome.exe even though the remote user is using it? May be with an specific parameter?

Buy it, although your licence won't last long if you plan on using it maliciously.

I like how you said "no one of the links are working!" yet the only link that wasn't working was, the Orcus Technologies hyperlink. I updated that link, but if you do some searching on HF you can find Orcus' sales thread.

occupi - October 19, 2018, 12:35 pm

Pretty much anyone posting questions about how to get this working in their copy of Orcus is liable to get their license revoked. Just a heads up.

Is it true though that if I open chrome for example while the owner is using it it shuts it off/closes out of it?

That seems like a simple fix. Just tell the owner not to use chrome while you need to use it remotely

With how Sorzus setup how keys are determined, he did not account for any modifier keys. Sorry I can not fix this issue on my own.
