Thread: People selling Instagram Verification? Real or fake

?Nuski - March 24, 2018, 3:12 pm

So I have been seeing verified accounts in comment sections saying they are selling verification they all have like no more than 5k followers and about 3 posts its completely random pages but all of them are verified on Instagram.

So I dmed one and he said he charges $100 and he has a panel to verify people what you guys think real or fake anyone heard of a verification service ?

I've seen this service before but who knows man I do not know anyone that has purchased the service. If you are going for it perhaps get a MM.

>100

fake

>1k+

possibly real but rare

It's really possibly that it is real, I'd do it half off for you. Just let me know, honestly it's not difficult if you know what you're doing.

Authentically, that one guy has to be fake unless he has some private method...There's only 2 way I ken of. Anyone who wants to ken how to verify they're account I'll tell them know for FREE. I suppose I should contribute a little as I am new here.

Verifications happen when you are impersonated intensely, right?

Guys hes a scammer , as soon as i saw the instagram profile pic in your dm picture i knew who he was, i saw him commenting on worldstar pages for buying dm blue badges, I messaged him and i paid him the $100 and he blocked me asap, He got the blue tick because the account hes own he hacked or took the account he owns was previously verified by the og owner and this guy must of social engineered him and got his account, their are only 3 ways of getting a blue tick, 1. actually being a person thats highly impersonated, 2. having connections with someone at Instagram to verify you, and 3. hacking their account and using it as your own
