[people triggered I called him pro]

My buddy just started streaming after weeks of trying to convince him to he bought a new gaming rig, a mic, and a webcam and has been streaming consistently for about 2 weeks now. He's not actually pro but he's very good at Fortnite and most other games and also happens to be an entertaining person who engages with the chat often.

Check him out :D

That play you posted was terrible. Not even close to pro, average at best

Lol you get tilted and -3 me for saying your friend is garbage. You probably eat his ass on the weekends

Your friend isn't great. If you want viewers from skill, hes got a lot of work ahead of him. Viewers from personality though, different story.

You didn't even see any of his gameplay other than a 60second video which is like. The only video he uploaded.

Why'd you neg m1lk for giving criticism?

Just leaves a bad impression on the kind of friend you hang around.

& I can sorta tell that he is about average.

Sort of friend my friend hangs out with, is that what you mean? Because my friend doesn't even know what HF or rep is. Who cares about rep anyways lol. It wasn't constructive criticism, so I negged him. Why is it your alt?

That's petty. If you expect to receive ONLY good comments on his clips, HF isn't the place for you, nor the internet.

I did actually. I saw the other thread you made that got locked and watched the full video. He's nowhere near "pro".

Gotta fake it till you make it

Obviously, you have to fake it till you make it. Literally in the clip I posted he says "I don't even know how I did that, I'm a fucking noob", I bet he's still light years ahead of your gameplay. Ya'll so hung up on the fact I called him pro, get over yourselves lol.

My thread didn't get locked btw, I locked it because I didn't know this section existed.

People are so surprised when they act rude that they get rudeness back. I hate people that rear end my car and blame me for stopping.

If you're going to call him a shit player, maybe explain why and what he could do to improve.

Seriously, and thank you.

Only posted this here in the first place because HF is where I found one of my favorite streamers Elve, before he had any type of following. Someone liked his stream and posted it in the Runescape section and I've been following ever since for like a year now. People seem to be more upset that I used the word Pro, they're like 18 years old feeling so superior on the net they're sweating from the relief of finally finding an argument they think they can win safely behind their keyboards.

And he's back online
