Thread: I was denied Ub3r

SecretAchiever101 - March 27, 2018, 9:02 am

I was denied ub3r. I already know I cannot ask questions as to why I got denied and I respect that. All I want to ask is what can I do in order to get accepted next time I apply? Should I focus on posting more, helping others more?

I mean... I am kind of confused, I was sure I was going to get accepted but I wasn't. I don't consider myself a LQ member, apparently the admins have a different point of view on that.

I demand nothing from admins, I'm just confused and would highly appreciate any kind of help regarding on what should I do better next time in order to get approved.

Thanks in advance

Try again in 90 days, better luck next time :)

You can still be HQ and get denied. Just try your luck next time. Only Omni can decide who to accept/deny.

I didn't get accepted my first time around either. Try to avoid getting any more warnings.

Avoid getting warnings and be as high quality as you can possibly be until you next apply.

Good luck.

I didn't get approved the 1st time either. Create helpful threads and giveaways. Avoid blackhat activity.

Looking through your threads - It's all asking questions. Which is cool, but I looked for ages and not once have you contributed anything. You are pretty much leeching from the POV of anyone viewing your posts/threads. Make some contributions to become an Ub3r!

Not sure, but maybe your given reputations look a bit like rep farming:

(Not saying that's the reason you got declined though)

Anyways, like others said. Keep on being HQ and try again in 90 days. Goodluck.

This and try your best to abide by the policies of the site and contribute. I wish you best of luck for your next application.

Yeah I've seen users lately with like 40 rep approved! So as far as I'm concerned I guess it all comes down to what your rep consist of... see ub3rs can post in ce and to an extent I don't see a lot of deals done regarding your rep... not to say you arnt trust worthy and etc but this is a factor also try giving away and being high quality and etc

I appreciate all your answers,especially yours Elitas,Imma take this into consideration.

I have no idea why you specifically were not accepted, but I would encourage more activity to show you want to be helpful. Less than a post per day does not show strong leadership.
