Hey lovely people of this forum. I am a 20 year old depressed engineering student in his second year of college. After I am done my engineering, I will be heading to get my license as a pilot. On the side I design websites, make music, play rugby and workout. I am here to learn how to hack and meet lovely people down the road. Excited to meet you all <3.

Welcome AbsintheThorn

You got some nice career there. I don't have those talent as yours so don't let depression kills you. If you need someone to talk to, where here for you.

Check this thread: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5789156>.

Have fun and have a nice day. :)

Glad to have you here. Sorry to hear about the depression, hopefully you consider the long-terms when you want to make a negative choice regarding that. I am around if you need to talk about something!

Anyways, it seems like you have yourself all planned out, goal wise. That's great! Looking forward to seeing more of you.

cheers!
