There goes the first scam within the first day for a silly amount of $8.5. I decided i that i wanted to come in the market as a OSRS gold seller, but had to build myself some credibility first. I offered to buy his 10mil for $8.5 BTC and once i had sent the payment, he never came to the World and traded me the gold with the excuses such as claiming that i was offline whilst i wasn't and then he logged off plus he stopped responding.

He even sent me a screenshot of his stock of 320mil and asked if I wanted to buy way more than the 10mil, but luckily i trusted my gut on this one and only went with the 10mil.

He was online just right before i posted the thread, so he is clearly and obviously ignoring and gone down the road on scamming some pocket money for his lunch at school ?

Enjoy the 8 bucks Legit Blue, i pity you. You gotta have a sad life, lol.

We communicated through the private messages. Why?

I also noticed after the deal on his "stock" screenshot that the username was Mitsuka. Does the name sound familiar?

Then most likely it was this broke kid, who attempted to scam more.
