Just play Annie. Why are you continuing to play a champ with 40% win rate -_- to get out of silver u need mind knowledge look at Ur minimap every 3 seconds while in lane to know whats going on know where the jungler started so u can ward at the right time and the next thing is know when to engage in a team fight pick a good fight or split push and pick a good time to keep pushing while ur team distracts them meanwhile they might bring 1-2 to come over and stop u which means it could be 4v2 or 3 at that moment depending how many they sent over

NA Riven - April 9, 2018, 3:17 am

To bad you are NA, if u were on EUW I could play with u test - April 9, 2018, 3:30 am

If you were in OCE I would help. What role and champion do you play?

He doesn't need any of that to get out of silver to be honest. Good mechanics and maybe good lane management are enough for you to climb up to Diamond 5

Indeed I have a friend in Bronze 3 (I duoq boosted him he is B5) and he has a timer that beeps every 3 seconds and then he checks his minimap, most people in silver/bronze need game sense and mechanics.

I main Vayne, it's a hard champ for the early laning phase, then I manage to snowball and get a lead. It's always the late game where we throw and end up losing. That's how most of my games go, a good lead, I'm feed and do a lot of damage then we throw.

Cheers, ?

I would probably try expanding your champion pool. 2-3 champions, especially as ADC, is a good amount to be competent on. Vayne definitely is good if you can make it out of the laning phase as you said but she can get completely dicked in lane by a team with any brains. First picking her is basically a death sentence too. I think she is good if your support picks before you, or you know what they are picking, and they play something that can protect you like a Janna, Karma, Lulu etc.

I'm not really sure who is meta anymore because I hardly play but at your elo you can play pretty much everything. I personally like Lucian as he has some mean harass against champions like Vayne and Jhin. Once they tumble or Jhin's fourth shot you can easily dash, double auto, Q and double auto again before walking out.

I'd say if you are doing well you need to be the shotcaller because in that elo literally no-one knows how to play the map. If you see a jungler heading topside, spam ping your top laner to back off. You literally have to babysit your other laners. Always buy a pink every back too. Make sure you keep one up either protecting your tri-brush if you're getting camped or help your mid laner out by placing it near them in the river. Always shove objectives like towers. Once you get a gank and kill the enemy adc/support then get as much damage as you can on the tower. If you can get it - swap with your top laner and do the same thing. Gold from towers means so much and the more gold your team has the more likely they will be to get ahead.

Let me know if you need/want any other specific tips. Good luck!

I can do it for cheap, I have a fresh account I can use.

wasteman65 - April 12, 2018, 1:30 pm

You have to look at your replays and see how you could have played it better like a high elo player would. There are many amazing guides on Youtube, check those out.

I'd help but I'm drunk rn so I wouldn't win.

People saying you should be looking at your minimap every 3 seconds are WRONG!

90% of the time you should be staring at your minimap, unless you're looking somewhere else to get information close to your champion. If you're not in lane or in a fight you should be looking at your minimap, it gives all the information of staring at your champion plus gives you the ability to track their team and such. Information is key

I have pretty good map awareness, I find myself mostly pinging top, mid and jungle if I see any danger. I can also get track of skills and cd's. Most of my games are pretty good me getting (A- to S) it's just super hard to carry as ADC. Even though Vayne is a hyper carry. Very hard, I don't know what else I can do. Toxic (I mute em), Feeders, Braindead teammates when it matters the most. I know blaming my teammates is just as bad and not making me a better player. I think I'm doing better than average though, just hard to climb.

I'm drunk myself lmao, don't know if that made sense.

If you're doing better than average you wouldn't be making this thread. Drop Vayne and play a carry with longer range and more safety. Vayne is not for climbing and gold players should not play Vayne, because they're garbage with her. Try Tristana, Caitlyn or Xayah

Allsaint - May 24, 2018, 4:19 pm

best thing to do is play low skill champs (annie/garen) and focus on farming that way u get super ahead of the enemy if you can farm better aslong as your not feeding so much easier to carry if you focus on ur csing.
