Thread: Played game first time in 2 yrs

Account of the Gods - April 10, 2018, 4:42 pm

I told myself to not play games

And was working 2yrs on my business

I learned a lot about myself in these 2 yrs

And got a gf plus a few ons and muscles

Due to not playing games i had the time and energy, motivation to create nice body

Which now results in me getting chicks

Not many, i still struggle, but 2yrs ago it was hell

No puvsi for me back then

I had a feeling all these boyos playing these games have:

- no gf and poor social life
- often obese or very skinny
- shitty job

I felt lethargy. Game i played today was shity but it was mmo and its addiciting.

Id play it more

But hell.

Games did evil thing to me. They took 10yrs of life or more from me

Apart from that, they demotivate u
From achieving success in others areas of life

Success and happiness is relevant to our surroundings

If u work minimum wage in usa then your not a catch

It can get u unhappy, cuz u earn below average

But put urself to africa or india and u will be one of richer people

So our success depends on luck, and amount of time we put in our life strategy

Then we compare and get compared to people around us and the result is who we are and if we are happy or sad

No time for games in this social pyramid scheme

Congrats I guess? No offense but this is one sloppy ass thread. Games for a lot of people are a way to have fun or just to pass time, get their minds off of things. I doubt the majority of people who play games are the way you described them. That's just a stereotype people have for gamers.

You can still play games and have a job /gf maybe even live in your own apartment. But if you want to be the best you need to dedicate all your time to it with a job/gf its not possible.

You can easily play games whilst having a social life and looking good. You just need to take appropriate measures, such as a time limit.

Sounds like you need some self control.

Everytime you feel like playing do 50 pushups. I don't care if you get sore at 20, do not stop until you hit 50.

That may mean you end up taking 2 minutes between each if that's the level you are at. You will not want to play after you hit 50.

Really? I do pushups as part of training, any additional chest/hand/arm exercise will weaken me too much and reduce my gainz
