Do you offer a 'pay with profit' deal if the price is doubled?

I am busy with life and running my own community at the moment. Just thought autobuy would be another nice source of income.

I'm interested, can you speak to any investments we may need to also factor in for us to get to your referenced $3600?

The only investment you need is the products. Will need $40-60 before it starts to pay for itself.

throwaway5 - April 16, 2018, 11:30 am in what sense is it greyhat?

The products aren't exactly legit.

I have 2 people trying the method at the moment. Vouches will be posted soon.

Before I begin my review, I would like to thank you for giving us ("Appraisers"), the opportunity to review your eBook.

Product: [\[AUTOBUY\]](#) - Greyhat Dropshipping Method - [\[EARN BIG\]](#) - [\[FULL SUPPORT\]](#) - [\[UNSATRUATED\]](#) by "JackGeeza"

Before I get into the method here I will talk shortly about the design and other relevant things. Now when I 1st got this review copy I was fairly surprised. I have never actually gotten an eBook in any other form than a pdf, but this method is made in the .txt format. Now there are several down sides to this. First of all, it is much harder to understand the steps in comparison to it being in a PDF format where everything can be properly structured etc. also there is no possibility to have any images or illustrations in a TXT document, meaning it can be much harder for people to understand and follow the method included. Now as I said I have never gotten a review copy in any other format than .PDF, and I have reviewed eBooks that range all the way from $15-200 in price. Now for an eBook costing $150 to not even bother creating a “proper” looking and structured eBook is just quite negative in my opinion. For that price I would really expect there to be illustrative images, proper sentence layout and design, and so on and so forth. Especially since everyone else does it, I see no excuse why OP hasn’t done it here. I believe it would make the eBook much, much better.

Now onto the method itself. In the thread this is described as greyhat, which is certainly true. Though I might even call it slightly blackhat if I am understanding the method correctly. Now as is clearly stated this method is centered around dropshipping. What you will do is basically sign up on a certain site and resell items on it that you get from known cheap Chinese sites/suppliers. Now OP talks about reselling branded/designer items in this method and getting them for cheap from china. This would then mean you are selling fakes if I understand the eBook correctly. And that is no doubt greyhat, but also blackhat as well. If you do sell fakes of items to people, then that can not only get you in a lot of trouble with paypal for example, but also legally. It is not something I would start doing unless I was very confident or in need of money.

Also, I would like to mention that OP included a screenshot to what your spreadsheet might look like for keeping track of orders, products etc. Yet he does not want to actually share that already premade spreadsheet with you. This combined with everything else just makes this not at all feel like a $150 product to me.

Now the eBook is not much more than this. That is more or less what you are told to do. And again, I feel it is much harder to properly understand and follow this eBook from start to finish as it is in a .txt file format.

This brings me to the price point of this eBook/method. OP is selling something at $150 that was made in a .txt format, and something that could no doubt be better set up and explained. Sure, this method might work for you, it might even work very well for you, but the product being sold here is just not worth the asking price as it is now in my opinion. Having reviewed and seen many products here in the premium marketplace, this eBook to me should be valued at perhaps $30 at most, and not $150.

Also, if I did not already mention this, the marketplace you will be selling on is designed for mobile and doesn’t really have that much of an online PC presence.

Final Thoughts

To OP I would say that you can really make a lot of changes to your product. You can make it more detailed, you can add in more sentence structure, you can add in images and illustrations, and more. And most importantly of all you can make it into a proper PDF file. If you do that, then, and only then do I think your current price point can come even close to being justified. Because right now, I simply cannot defend or agree to the price this is being sold at.

If you are looking for a new product or eBook to make some money from then this is not your best option at this point in time. Having the eBook be in a txt format is not the greatest to begin with, but then also selling it at $150 I just do not at all think that that is the best, unless you really have a lot of cash to spend and you are desperate for a new dropshipping method. Now I will not tell you what to purchase or not on here or anywhere else, but personally I believe you can get much more bang for your buck investing in some of the other, cheaper eBooks on here.

I am sorry OP if you feel I am being unreasonable with my criticism, but I am just stating my views on this product's current worth and quality.

It's formatted as a txt because there's nothing you can't understand. I never claimed it was an eBook, but simply a method. It's written well and isn't hard to comprehend. It's not meant to look good, it's meant to make money, which it will for anyone that purchases it. Everyone that I have sold it to has got their ROI.

i am not saying its not understandable for me personally. also i am not saying people can't make money with it. i just think that having seen a lot of products on this site, your pricing is way above the level i would expect this sort of product to be. also have you never had any issues using this method yourself?

The price is decent for the amount of money you make back. You can make it back within the first week or even a few days. I have never had an issue with the products. If you select products with good reviews, they're usually 1:1.
