I'm saying that's not true, that people would pay a lot of money for old rs accs.

They're not worth much unless they're REALLY old (Read: pre 2004ish) and have items from back then. You can buy 5/10 year vet accounts with low stats for like $5-10 ea on PlayerAuctions, and there's a lot of for sale offers for them.

<http://prntscr.com/j7gpqk> <- anything there that says username login is at least a 5 year vet.

As justg mentioned above, they are not worth a lot. People who sell them for a lot are just the big sellers, I've sold 15 year vets at $15 each in bulk. I don't even track the rest.

why would anyone play on that account ? If it ends up being locked , what are you going to put in creation details ? Will get instantly denied

I have thousands of these accounts, they're not worth anything.

I don't think it adds value unless they have old rares.
