Hello guys,

I just wanted to introduce my site, CyberDoor. I have a lot incredible ideas for this site and I am eager to have engagements on the site to help get this going. I know a lot of users like to speak their mind so this may be the spot for you.

Some features (note: means its in progress and almost ready):Tons of topics to talk about

Award System

Blogging availability - We let our users have the permission to have their own space to blog and create their own unique content to share with the community and the world.

Feedback is highly appreciated - We're eager to see users give feedback about things they think could make this site a winner.

User Shops * - Users will be able to have their own shops and products and be able to sell on the site.

Support Ticket System - Have an issue with the site or an issue with a user? Report it and staff will investigate. This is a private area where you and staff can discuss matters.

Clubs - Run a club / group and have a unique area dedicated to your groups content (images, topics, downloads, etc).

SSL - We take privacy serious and so should you. Our site encrypts all data to avoid database leaks and password dumps.

There are many things in the work and the website is constantly growing to its audience. We look forward to having you. Let me know if you have any questions!

looks v nice, may join in the future :)

always looking for a decent cybersec community, not all the 'lol xd carding new leak not virus 100%' shit sites.

I am constantly open to suggestions and am currently looking for two moderators for the site to help get it going. With the idea of users being able to run blogs on their own content, groups with their own dedicated space (not just a forum), and a variety of topics that branch past cybersecurity, I really think it has a lot of potential.

Can you send me a screenshot? I'm wondering if you're not passing the captcha.

Hi,

Our spam blocker may have blocked your IP provided by TOR however, we do not explicitly block TOR. Our spam service filters known spam IP's and blocks them. I encourage you to register without TOR and see if it works.

Seems pretty good, I'll try it soon! Nice job.

This is truly an awesome forum and it's powered by Invision. So refreshing. I got involved and asked a few things I was curious about and the owner answered swiftly. He seems to be very involved and has the proper background to operate such a site.

This isn't just any forum. It's awesome, and if you're an IT geek or just want to socialize with another board you have to register.

Hi Muddy,

Thanks for the feedback. It really means a lot to me. I'm currently working with a designer to get some awards on the site and also researching some ideas into a point system.
