Thread: Designer label clothes

Troop - April 22, 2018, 1:54 pm

So I used to go to school with like first shit I pick up and never care about clothes I wear. Now I started caring about that somehow :D

Do you also care about labels or just buy random clothes that u find good?

Vegeta - April 22, 2018, 2:04 pm

I usually shop at Pacsun/Zumiez for my clothes. Every now and then I'll get myself something nice from like Supreme or some other brand but I just like to appear nice when going out rather than looking like a bum.

Yeah man thats why Im looking for some exp outfit like 1-1.5k$ in total. I have alot of trash clothes and since I started earning good money I want to buy better clothes.

Eccy - April 22, 2018, 2:09 pm

I won't wear unbranded clothes, cheapest I'll go is Adidas, personally love Stone Island.

You can find a lot of outfits for that much money. Don't just get a few expensive pieces unless you make a lot of money. Go to the mall with friends and just go on a spree. Even online, I just prefer to go in stores cause I like trying stuff on cause some brands fit and feel different than others.

I like online shopping xD because I always feel so weird in malls like walking for hours to find 1 good piece...

gianni - April 22, 2018, 2:17 pm

I use to never care about what I wore but now I try to dress a little classier or just nicer in general.

Most of the time when I go shopping I just try to get 2 outfits so I don't have to go out for another month or so. I haven't gone in awhile actually. ?

Troop - April 22, 2018, 2:21 pm

The thing is sometimes I like wear shit clothes for some time then decide to buy something good and buy versace tshirts, yeezys etc and then just buy too much of "exclusive" clothing, I grow up and everything becomes too small... xD

Same goes for me. I used to buy shit like loub's, yeezy, off-white, Gucci, stone etc. but I stopped caring once I realized I'm wasting my money and could put it towards investments instead.

f o r m i d a b l e - April 22, 2018, 3:28 pm

Depends how you wanna look. I used to spend a long time picking out what to get; name didn't matter as long as it was from the mall or online. My advice is the more expensive it is, the longer it will stay in trend or look good, but not always the case though.

Why not just save that money towards a car? I'm sure down the road you would be a lot happier that you have extra money to have a nice car rather than a few nice pieces of clothing.

Got a point I suppose. Try not to blow it all though, that's something I wish I didn't do. I would be driving a lot nicer of a car right about now if I would have just saved money.

Judge Judy - April 22, 2018, 3:53 pm

Designer clothes are IRL money sinks. Sure they can be fun, but fun can be had in other ways as well, no need to spend $350 on a shirt.

plain shirts or some expensive ass small boutique shit 100% of the time
miss me w the labels

lust - April 22, 2018, 4:28 pm

Don't bother with designer (unless you can ACTUALLY afford it) and stay the fuck away from streetwear. The point of dressing up nicely is to give people a good impression of you without even having to talk to you. Go on sites like Uniqlo or maybe even visit your local H&M for basics. For stuff like pants and polos, just go to Macy's.

My uncle and dad send me nice clothes so I don't really have to worry about not having enough to wear. They're nice clothes as well but I normally don't care about the brand, having the brand though is something cool since people do like them.

I know a few people. It's just overhyped. It honestly makes you look like you don't know how to dress yourself. It involves oversized fits, some of the stupidest color combos I've seen. I mean shit, just go look at the top of r/Streetwear

From what I've seen the only people that like streetwear are dudes that wear streetwear
I know a bunch of people in the modeling/fashion scene and they all laugh at the kids

BOBBY TARANTINO - April 23, 2018, 8:18 pm

Don't start big, streetwear is where it's at. I personally would choose a nice supreme tee with some checkerboard vans or some Jordan 1 retro's with a nice watch to complete the outfit, also designer belts have more appeal than you think.

A custom fitted suit will always have more appeal than children's clothes.
Gottim.

DENIZ - April 24, 2018, 4:24 am

Always getting some nice pair of jeans and a nice shirt over it (I buy a lot from ZARA for example) . Along with some nice pair of sneakers (mostly adidas) and few accessoires (got some hilfiger watches etc.)

I don't care much about brands, but if I can afford them, why not.

Tree of Life - April 24, 2018, 4:28 am

Well in our country teachers earn like 900$ a month so you know.. If I wouldve wear like 700$ shoes everyone would say that im just showing off or something so I gotta buy something cheaper...

Of course bro I understand it already. Got ripped of multiple times (in real life) just cuz I had too much money and ppl knew about it. In our country there is alot of scammers on the street (even some of my classmates steal money).

olga360 - April 24, 2018, 3:45 pm

I usually wear labels but only because non brands or lower priced clothes lately are being made so cheap it won't last a year.

Wake - April 24, 2018, 3:56 pm

I do prefer branded clothes but at the end of the day your paying for nothing more then a logo. But If I saw something I liked that was not branded that would not stop me from buying It.

Well some countrys dont have uniforms.. it just depends on school system. In japan they even clean classrooms but here where I live everyone would prob laugh seeing someone cleaning classroom instead of a cleaner :D
