

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: GameGator - Compare Thousand of GameDeals and find the cheapest price!

Rainbow45rainbow45 - May 4, 2018, 2:27 am

Howdie fellow Hackforums Users, my friend recently launched his price comparison website and was hoping to get some feedback.
(Sadly he couldn't post links yet, so here I am doing it for him :))

Lets get some helpful reviews/feedback flowing!

Dennis - May 4, 2018, 10:32 am

Looks good but idk why I would use this over for example gamekeyfinder etc..

Rainbow45rainbow45 - May 4, 2018, 11:06 am

They offer a more user friendly design, more marketplaces to compare from, MAC + Console Games, weekly giveaways,...

Usually I would add insane loading speeds, but GameKeyfinder is surprisingly fast, not like other competitions.

Not to sound rude, but I am not sure why people would use gamekeyfinder, their site seems stuck in the 19XX. And they only have ~4800 Games, which is not the biggest amount for the time they have been around. Once again, not trying to offend anyone, just comparing.

Dennis - May 4, 2018, 11:12 pm

(May 4, 2018 11:06 AM)Rainbow45rainbow45 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They offer a more user friendly design, more marketplaces to compare from, MAC + Console Games, weekly giveaways,...

Usually I would add insane loading speeds, but GameKeyfinder is surprisingly fast, not like other competitions.

Not to sound rude, but I am not sure why people would use gamekeyfinder, their site seems stuck in the 19XX. And they only have ~4800 Games, which is not the biggest amount for the time they have been around. Once again, not trying to offend anyone, just comparing.

Idc about the design nor do I care about the giveaways. I am not 15 anymore. If I want a game, I'll buy it.

As for the amount of games, I have yet to look up a game that isn't listed on gamekeyfinder. I only play on pc so the other systems are w/e to me.

Also the design isnt more user friendly, it's just fancier. If I want to look up a game, I don't need to see it's cover or a long as list of with unnecessary paddings and margins that make me scroll. The table of resuts gamekeyfinder provides is enough.

Rainbow45rainbow45 - May 5, 2018, 6:53 am

(May 4, 2018 11:12 PM)Currywurst Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Idc about the design nor do I care about the giveaways. I am not 15 anymore. If I want a game, I'll buy it.

As for the amount of games, I have yet to look up a game that isn't listed on gamekeyfinder. I only play on pc so the other systems are w/e to me.

Also the design isnt more user friendly, it's just fancier. If I want to look up a game, I don't need to see it's cover or a long as list of with unnecessary paddings and margins that make me scroll. The table of results gamekeyfinder provides is enough.

True you have got a point, I guess I am just one of those that enjoys a good looking website, but in terms on unnecessary paddings, i think gamegator and gamekeyfinder are pretty even, especially compared to horrible allkeyshop.

But I have to say gamegator is more userfriendly, they provide everything in a short manner a user might need, reviews, trailers, votings, news, price history,...

All easily accessible and helpful to users :) But yeah if you want to go for super simplicity I guess gamekeyfinder is the way to go.

Either way, thank you for your feedback, I passed it on! <3